Shovel Co. Puts Largest Dipper To Work in Coal Strip Mine

Some idea of the size of the dipper is furnished by this photograph which shows Bud Snodgrass, one of the operators, standing by the front of the dipper.

40 Cubic Yard Bucket Made Possible by War-Time Improvement in Metals.

The world's largest shovel dipper has just been completed by Marion Power Shovel Co. and placed in operation on a Marion Type 5561 shovel of the Hanna Coal Co. near Cadiz, O.

This giant dipper is capable of moving enough earth at one bite to fill a room 12 feet long, 10 feet wide and 9 feet high. On the 5561, this dipper can move the giant load two-thirds of a city block and drop it on top of a seven-story building.

Construction of the 40-yard dipper and a newly-designed handle for it were made possible by the application of war-developed steels of new tensile strength and resistance to abrasion. These new steels cleared the way for a dipper and handle design which is 30,000 pounds lighter than materials formerly used in achieving the same strength. Thus, it was possible to install the 40-yard dipper on a machine which has been handling a 35 cubic yard dipper in the past without adding to the front-end weight of the machine, even when the big dipper is fully loaded.

The big dipper is used to strip deep overburden from coal veins on Hanna properties in the vicinity of Cadiz. The big Marion machine is in operation 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and rapidly eats its way through high banks of overburden ranging up to 80 feet. Smaller machines follow the big Marion to load the veins of coal which have been laid bare by the stripping machine.

The Marion machine is powered entirely by electricity, and its power consumption is equal to that of a community of 3,000 persons.

Flower Sale Set Friday, Saturday by DAV Chapter

The annual forget-me-not sale under the sponsorship of Marion Chapter No. 22, Disabled American Veterans, will be held Friday and Saturday in the downtown business district. The proceeds of the sale, which will be conducted by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the D.A.V., will go toward rehabilitation of all disabled veterans.

Mayor Harry L. Dowler, in a proclamation designating the two days as an opportunity to aid the projects, calls on everyone, as American citizens, to "respond cheerfully and by so doing help make life a little brighter for the disabled veterans of all wars."

Headquarters for the two-day sale will be in the sheriff's office at the courthouse. General chairmen for the drive are Minor Hart, Arden Rizor and William Kehrwecker.

Serious Rail Crash Averted by Action of Crestline Man

Quick thinking on the part of J. G. Lightburn of Crestline, veteran Pennsylvania railroad engineer, was believed today to be responsible for saving the lives of hundreds of persons when the Pennsylvania's crack Broadway Limited skidded into the rear of the Liberty Limited at East Palestine, O., The Associated Press reported.

The Liberty Limited, traveling in two sections, was forced to stop when the first section was delayed by a freight train. The Broadway, due at East Palestine 25 minutes later, hit the rear of the eight-car Liberty. Lightburn, who was driving the leading engine on the Broadway, noticed the signal and applied air brakes.

Nine persons were slightly injured. The injured on the Broadway included R. E. Bixel of Lima, a mail clerk, The Associated Press said.

The impact derailed two wheels of a truck on the last car of the Liberty, causing two hours delay to that train and three hours to the Broadway.

Lightburn lives with his family at 426 West Main street in Crestline.

COUPLE STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Found in House Trailer East of City Yesterday; Condition Pronounced Critical.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wittred, who were found unconscious about 12:30 p. m. yesterday in their house trailer at the farm home of Taber Adams near Gate 1 of the Marion Engineer Depot, are in critical condition at City hospital, according to a report by the local physician who is treating them. Both are under oxygen tents, but neither has regained consciousness. Mrs. Wittred asked for something at one time during the night but has not revived since then. Four local physicians were called in for consultation last night by the attending physician.

The couple were believed to have been overcome by ammonia or monoxide gas fumes from the refrigerator. They were found yesterday when Mr. Adams investigated after Mr. Wittred, who is employed at the Marion Engineer Depot, failed to report for work. Receiving no answer to his knocks on the trailer door, he summoned Sheriff LeRoy Retterer, who entered the trailer by breaking a window when he was unable to open the door.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wittred were still in bed, the sheriff said. He added that the trailer smelled strongly of fumes, and the refrigerator was making a peculiar throbbing sound.

The victims were taken to City hospital in the M. H. Gunder and Sons and the Schaffner-Denzer Co. ambulances.

The Wittreds are parents of two daughters, Mary Dianne, 13, and Jerry Kay, 2. Both girls have been staying with their grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Wittred of 644 East Church street.

Concert Season Set for Opening Tonight

A program which promises to be as entertaining as it is varied, will be presented by the piano team of Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe for the opening concert of the 1946-47 season of the Marion Community Concert association, tonight at the Palace theater. Doors of the theater will open at 7:30 and the program is scheduled to start at 8:15 o'clock.

Selections chosen by the artists for tonight range from the early 17th century composers to the modern and include compositions of Handel, Bach, Moussorgsky, Casella, Brahms, Enesco, Rodgers, Arlen, Debussy and others equally as well known to music patrons. As in former years seats are not reserved.

The two performers have an enviable record in the Navy where, in addition to their blue jacket duties they gave more than 500 concerts before half a million service personnel here and in the Pacific.

3-STORY BLOCK BURNED WITH $250,000 LOSS

Mader Building, Owned by Bucyrus Fire Chief, and Stores Destroyed.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 10—Fire swept through the three-story brick Mader Block in the heart of town last night and early this morning, destroying the $100,000 building and causing smoke damage to adjacent establishments which may run the total loss to a quarter of a million dollars.

Firemen from Bucyrus and Galion reinforced by volunteers and Minute Men, battled the blaze from its discovery at 8 p. m. until daylight today, when it was finally brought under control. The fire reached its climax about midnight.

Only person injured was a volunteer fireman, C. A. Smith, 58, who slipped on a basement step and lacerated his leg and hip. He received treatment at City hospital.

Store Stock Destroyed

Jay's Toggery, a men's wear store located on the first floor of the building, lost all its stock. It is owned by Jay Winters. The Clover Farm grocery store, also on the first floor, was gutted.

The second floor of the building included the Junior Order lodge hall and some small apartments. The third floor contained the Royal Neighbors lodge hall.

The fire was discovered while a group of the latter organization was preparing for a card party, and smoke poured out of a rest room door when it was opened. It was later recalled that workers on the party had smelled smoke all afternoon.

The fire department had already been called, however, to a shop around the corner owned by Harry Swain. The alarm had been put in when smoke was observed pouring out of the Swain Dry Cleaners. It was soon discovered that there was no fire in that store, but that the smoke was coming through tunneling from the Mader building.

Mr. Swain, an invalid who lives above his shop, was removed from his apartment in case the fire spread.

Merchandise in his store was considerably damaged. Other establishments in that building damaged by smoke to such an extent that they did not open today were Songer's restaurant and the Kramer barber shop.

Other Buildings Damaged

Business places and apartments in three-story buildings on either side of the Mader building were badly damaged by smoke, although neither building caught fire.

Businesses damaged to such an extent that they did not open today were the USES office, Cully's Newsland, the Bucyrus bakery, Fisher Hardware store and Kloepfer Electric store.

The Bucyrus City Bank building, located on the northwest corner of Washington square, the center of town, was not damaged, although adjoining buildings to the west and north were. Employes of the bank, attending a convention in Mansfield, were called to Bucyrus to remove records.

The Mader block is owned by William F. Mader, who is chief of the Bucyrus fire department. Only a shell of the building was standing today, still smouldering.

A crowd of several hundred was attracted by the blaze.

Both sides of Washington square were roped off. The Red Cross disaster committee and the Salvation Army served coffee and sandwiches to the almost 50 workers.

The blaze first broke out of the building at the rear about 9 p. m. A short time later flames became visable through the third-story front windows and the structure then flamed high until midnight, after which it burst out intermittently. Four pieces of fire apparatus were used.

It was Bucyrus' third major fire within a year. In October and November last year the Morris Ten Cent Store and the Newberry Ten Cent store were both destroyed with an estimated $200,000 loss each.

Twenty minutes after the alarm was sent in, a call was received at the Bucyrus fire station from the Swan Rubber Co. in another part of town. One fireman remaining in the station, Fritz Salze, and two volunteers, George Barth and Otto Hertzer, both over 70, took out the remaining pumper and extinguished the fire. It was in a small construction office. Loss was estimated at $400.

3-Day Warren Power Strike Is Suspended

First Shift Returns to Work Pending NLRB Election Results.

By The Associated Press

WARREN, O., Oct. 10—A three-day power strike, which curtailed service to 75,000 consumers, was suspended today as the first shift of striking CIO Utility Workers returned to work at the Ohio Public Service Co.

Union officials said the strike would be postponed until a collective bargaining election held by the national labor relations board clarified a jurisdictional dispute involving the CIO group and an AFL local union.

E. L. Franklin, vice president of the OPS, reported power service to area users increased immediately following the strikers' return-to-work, and predicted supplies to Warren and nearby Niles would be "back to normal" tonight.

Action by the union followed acceptance by the membership of a strike-suspension proposal at a meeting with a federal conciliator last night. Company officials declined comment on terms of the proposal.

The offer was conditioned on three points: that all employes be returned to their regular jobs immediately, that there be no discrimination by the company in any form, against any employe, and that the NLRB election be conducted on schedule. On Oct. 3 it was stipulated that the poll be taken within 30 days.

Both the CIO union and the AFL Operating Engineers union claim to represent the company's power plant employes. The company has contended that it cannot negotiate with either union until the NLRB has certified one of them as bargaining agent.

The strike began Monday morning, and by yesterday leaders of the steel industry estimated that several thousand workers had been laid off because of curtailed power service in an area containing 75,000 consumers. The CIO members demand a wage increase of 18 cents an hour. Present hourly rates range from 80 cents to $1.50, company officials said.

Before the offer was presented, Gov. Lausche had arranged a conference today with Mayor Henry C. Wagner, representatives of the union and the company.

The vote to "recess and postpone" the strike was taken last night at a union meeting arranged by U. S. Conciliator Andrew A. Meyer.

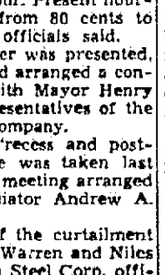
As a result of the curtailment of power in the Warren and Niles area, Republican Steel Corp. officials reported all finishing operations were halted. Thomas Steel Co. had reduced operations to one-third of capacity and Copperweld Steel Co. had shut down several furnaces.

The power supply was continued for hospitals and other essential services, and to homes, by supervisory employes.

Gen. Stilwell, U. S. Leader in Burma, Called Critically Ill

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10 — General Joseph W. Stilwell, Sixth army commander, is critically ill in Letterman General hospital. The 63-year-old Asiatic war veteran is suffering from a liver condition believed to have been contacted in the Burma jungles.



Gen. Stilwell

"Vinegar Joe," a wiry man whose indefatigable energy carried him through three years of strenuous personal leadership of American and Chinese troops in the wilds of Burma, underwent an operation Oct. 3 and was believed progressing satisfactorily until late yesterday.

Physicians issued only a brief announcement saying his condition was "critical."

JAP MINERS STRIKE

TOKYO, Oct. 10 — Hokkaido coal miners struck today for 25 per cent wage hikes. Early, unconfirmed reports said 40,000 miners from 14 of the island's 16 union locals had walked off their jobs.

MICHIGAN MAN BRINGS BACK SOD HOUSE 1946 STYLE. Henry Iverson's answer to the housing shortage and the dearth of materials with which to build is to dig up the earth in the area surrounding a new home site and—presto (that is, five months of hard work)—you have a pise, or rammed earth house, that will be the envy of your neighborhood. Iverson's $5,000, six-room, rambling earth home, top, is near South Haven, Mich., and to prove to skeptics the durability of the earthen walls, he lets them drive a spike into his garage, lower left. At lower right, Iverson is shown, left explaining his home-made machinery for mixing the 50 per cent clay and sand for his pise house. The chicken wire, left, is used to hold the cement that he will place over the outer wall.

U. S. REQUESTS FREE DANUBE

Joins with Britain in Plea for End of East-West Barrier.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 10—The United States and Britain joined forces today in calling upon the Soviet Union and the Slav states to remove a barrier between the East and the West with positive peace conference action on opening the Danube to free commerce.

U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich) led off the plenary session's deliberations on the Romanian peace treaty draft by declaring a "free Danube is indispensable to the economic health and peace of central Europe," and that failure to open Europe's most important inland waterway would be a "tragic, reactionary mistake."

Vandenberg's plea brought a prompt rejoiner from Yugoslav Deputy Premier Edvard Kardelj, who attacked the majority report of the Balkans commission on two articles in the draft dealing with the Danube. He held that the conference was not "competent to deal with the Danube question" and said Yugoslavia deserved a greater Danubian role because "50 per cent of its course is through Yugoslav territory."

Vandenberg was the first speaker of the conference, with the Italian treaty out of the way, took up the second of the five drafts before it. He was joined in his plea for free commerce on the Danube and free trade throughout the Balkan nations by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

"The task of rehabilitating Europe is made infinitely more difficult," Bevin said, "so long as there is a barrier between the West and the East in the Danube area and the commercial interests of the West are met in Romania by a whole host of discriminatory acts."

Bevin said that the Russian proposal, which sought to restrict the use of the Danube exclusively to the countries along its banks, is not only a retrograde step but a deliberate dis-

High Housing Prices Laid to U. S. Controls

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—The high cost of houses was attributed by an Ohio construction leader today to government controls, which he said stifled private enterprise.

Here for a meeting of the National Association of Home Builders, J. B. Haverstick of Dayton advocated elimination of all federal restrictions on builders and building materials by the spring of 1947.

Haverstick, president of the Ohio Builders association, told a reporter that his organization was back of a program for "complete decontrol" as a means of accelerating construction of small homes for veterans and low-income groups "at reasonable prices."

He said that restrictions had prevented a balanced and constant flow of materials, which he suggested would bring about at least a 10 per cent reduction in costs.

NAVY RECRUITING STATION CLOSED

Marion Area Transferred to Mansfield District.

Orders transferring the Marion Navy recruiting substation in the post office building to Mansfield were received here today from Fifth district headquarters in Columbus.

The Marion office was closed today and the two men in charge, E. W. Bobb, chief boatswain's mate, and R. D. Kym, chief machinist's mate, were ordered to report to Columbus for further assignment.

The Marion office served Marion, Morrow, Wyandot, Hardin and Crawford counties. Men in the Marion area who desire information on the Navy's recruiting program must now report to the Mansfield office.

Closing the Marion recruiting office is part of the Navy's program in line with curtailments ordered as a result of reduced funds, according to Capt. Royal L. Rutter, area inspector of recruiting.

Beginning Oct. 15, Navy recruiting stations in Cincinnati and Cleveland will be reduced to substations and a number of other changes will be made. The new regulations also have closed Navy recruiting substations at Steubenville and Marietta. A Navy recruiting substation has been located in Marion since before the war.

CROP YIELD ESTIMATED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10—Some 200,000 acres of red clover will yield 132,400 bushels of threshed run seed in Ohio this year, the federal-state crop reporting service estimated today. That will be 71,000 bushels more than the 161,000 harvested in 1945.

LINK DEMAND FOR DECONTROL WITH PLEDGE

Make Formal Request to Secretary Anderson for Curb Removal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—The beef industry coupled a demand for immediate scrapping of price controls today with a promise of ample supplies of meat "very soon"—possibly before November's congressional elections—if the administration acts.

R. G. Haynie, chairman of the OPA beef industry advisory committee which petitioned formally for decontrol, told reporters there are plenty of cattle and calves ready for market as soon as price ceilings are lifted.

The White House, scene of a special round of top-level conferences on the situation late yesterday, remained silent.

"I make no forecast myself," said Press Secretary Charles G. Ross when reporters asked him what might happen.

President Truman was to see reporters at 4 p. m.

The beef industry's decontrol petition, filed with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, took sharp issue with the President's contention that there was a heavy slaughter of meat during July and August, when controls were temporarily off.

Explains Error

"Apparently the circumstances that have induced this erroneous belief is the fact that these cattle moved to market, were slaughtered and the meat sold during normal and legitimate channels," the petition said. "Many months prior to July 1, 1946, great numbers of cattle and calves were purchased by black market operators at the farm and auction markets and elsewhere which escaped the notice of governmental agencies."

The petition charged that there is no shortage of cattle and calves under the meaning of the price control act and said:

"Under these conditions congress has ordered decontrol in order that the law of supply and demand be permitted to function.

"Whether prices would rise after decontrol is wholly immaterial."

The committee said that Anderson should release all livestock and meat from controls—including hogs and sheep—if he should find it impractical to decontrol cattle and calves only.

Supply Only Question

Discussing the industry move at a news conference, Haynie said that under the law the only question involved is supply. He said the petition showed "by the government's own figures" that cattle and calves now available for market are above long time average.

The petition, filed by the industry's OPA advisory committee, contended there is no scarcity of these commodities within the definition of the new price control law, and that Anderson has no alternative to granting the petition.

Anderson, however, has placed cattle and calves on an official list of agricultural products in short supply.

Aides said Anderson had promised to give the petition "top" consideration. He has 15 days in which to act.

"No Short Supply

The beef industry petition argued that there is no short supply of cattle and calves when measured in terms of a pre-war normal period. Adopting the period of 1925-29—which it said covered high and low years of production as well as years of prosperity and depression—the committee said there are many more cattle and calves on farms now than in such a period. It said all cattle now number about 80,000,000 head compared with an average of 66,459,000 in the pre-war period.

With the meat controversy boiling at peak intensity—and amid forecasts of "emergency" action by President Truman within a few days—the Argentine ambassador, Oscar Ivanissevich, said he is ready to offer Argentina's help to combat the shortage.

One of the world's largest meat exporters, Argentina for years has been prohibited from shipping meat to the United States on the ground that hoof and mouth disease is prevalent among Argentine cattle.

However, on side to the ambassador told a reporter this is no issue now because the meat Ar-

CIO BIDS FOR RAILWAY UNION

Phillip Murray Formally Invites Brotherhood to Membership.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Oct. 10—Phillip Murray formally invited the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen today to membership in the CIO. He urged that they merge their political influence in a fight for price control and tax legislation to head off "a new depression."

The CIO president said his unions and the brotherhood, which "long ago recognized the value of political action," should stand together against development of "a situation in which the wage earners of our land are unable to buy its products."

Making his bid to the independent trainmen in an address prepared for their 28th convention, Murray upheld their position in the railroad strike last May which ended only after President Truman proposed an emergency anti-strike bill to congress.

In his remarks today Murray declared the AFL, under "an inert fuddy-duddy leadership slowly creeps along in the path of the CIO and shouts 'Me too, wait for baby.'"

SKEPTICAL BAND TO SEARCH FOR FLIERS

By The Associated Press

SICHANG, Oct. 10—American searchers today made meticulous preparations to hunt for five U. S. fliers reported enslaved by western China's Lolo tribesmen, but expressed skepticism that any Yanks are held captive.

They did not say why they doubted the widely-circulated rumors

Lt Col Herbert W. Wurtzler is being schooled by Sichang experts in Lolo lore, habits and customs and is acquainting himself with the forbidding topography of Lololand. He was aboard a search plane that was fired on by Lolos Saturday.

Wurtzler is preparing to drop on Lolo village messages printed in both Chinese and Lolo offering rich rewards for help in liberating any Americans who may be held captive.

Simultaneously a search continues from Sichang for an American pilot and 31 passengers of a Chinese National Airways liner reported down in Lololand. A Nanking message from a village magistrate also reported the pilot and passengers were being protected by a Lolo family vaguely said still keeping safe."

When another correspondent and I alighted at Sichang—the first newsmen here in more than five years—our plane was surrounded by Lolos. They took a little convincing, but seemed assured we are friendly.

Sturdy, they wore black turbans and leather shields. Armed with rifle and ammunition belts, they looked like warriors from a savage land. Scornful and suspicious of civilized ways, they never bathe.

They felt the plane's metal sides and measured its length with their arms.

Chesterfield Cigarets Announce Price Boost

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co., yesterday announced a 20 cents a thousand price increase for Chesterfields and its other brands to $7.38 a thousand at the wholesale level, following similar action on Monday by two other major producers, Philip Morris and Co., and the American Tobacco Co.

After the usual discounts to the trade of 10 and 2 per cent the net price to the wholesaler will be $6.30 a thousand, an increase of 25 cents.

Spokesmen for major retail outlets indicated the price increases will mean a boost in the retail cost of one cent a pack.

DEMAND PROBE OF U. S. REDS

Chamber of Commerce Asks Lid Be Ripped Off Communist Party.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—The United States Chamber of Commerce demanded today that congress rip the lid off the Communist party to end its power and influence in labor's ranks and within the government itself.

Declaring that Communists still are operating under an International Comintern bent upon world conquest, the organization asserted that because the party operates upon deceit" and is loyal to a "hostile" foreign power, it should be "forced by law" to reveal its memberhip, sources of money and all its activities.

The Chamber's lengthy report, based on a year-long investigation by a special committee on Socialism and Communism, asserted that Communists have succeeded in driving "many faithful public servants from the government."

It declared, too, that red infiltration into the government has been particularly marked in both the treasury and labor departments.

No Comment Offered

A treasury spokesman quickly reported that the department "naturally has no comment on so general a statement."

However, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach said that charges of subversive activity had been brought by the FBI against "a number of labor department employes" and that an investigation has been underway for several days. Five cases already have been studied and two others are set for inquiry.

On the labor front, the chamber declared that while the late Sidney Hillman was not a Communist, nor is CIO President Philip Murray, "two of their top advisers are Communists, taking direct and frequent orders on PAC policy from the very top level of the Communist party." The advisers were not named.

The report was made public at a news conference late yesterday which developed into one of the most acrimonious sessions of its kind here in recent months.

Under a barrage of questions, Francis P. Matthews, Omaha lawyer and chairman of the chamber's special committee, consistently refused to discuss the sources of information which formed the basis for the report.

Calls for 6 Steps

In addition to its recommendation that congress act to disclose Communist membership and financial secrets, the report called for these specific steps:

1. A "competent, impartial and patriotic" fact-gathering plan to throw light on Communist party activities.

2. Encouragement of "labor education" to give the non-Communist majorities the training needed to fight their disciplined opponents."

3. Greater education of the American businessman "to make certain that he learn to detect Communist influence in his labor relations, his business, and other contacts."

4. A congressional appropriation of "adequate funds for a stringent but fair loyalty test" to carry out the policy of excluding Communists from government service.

5. Federal action to enforce "strict reciprocity with the Soviet Union in regard to the number and freedom of movement of nationals of either country within the other."

6. A policy by this government "of frankness with its citizens in regard to the major facts which enter into the making of our foreign policy."

Life in Strike-Hit Steel City One Nuisance After Another

By ELAINE KAHN

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—Life under the 16-day-old power strike is inconvenient—but little more than that—to the average Pittsburgh housewife and her family.

The refrigerator still hums, radio goes and the toaster toasts. But the house may have an eerie appearance at night if residents heed pleas to use just one light.

Household routine is also somewhat mixed up by Duquesne Light Company requests to do washing and ironing on Saturdays and Sundays when the power load is lightest.

Neighborhood shopping goes on as usual. But unless Mrs. Housewife has a car, she has to hoof it. The clanging street cars and wheezing motor busses that provided transportation for 1,000,000 riders have disappeared from the city's narrow, winding streets.

Shop by Telephone.

Until this week, when downtown department stores reopened, shipping for clothes and household wares could be done only by telephone. In some "emergency" cases, clerks met customers at side entrances and guided them along flash-light-lit paths to show their wares.

Mama's weekly trip to the beauty parlor is also a casualty of the strike. Precious current can't be wasted on electric permanent waving machines.

But the stoppage has had some advantages. Mrs. Housewife can go into the dimly lit stores and find nylon stockings openly displayed on counters, thick turkish towels and equally scarce bed linens.

Transportation has been the biggest problem for the man in the family. Offices, closed the first two weeks of the strike, have reopened. Stores are now open and steel mills which have their own power plants, continue operation throughout.

Loss of pay because of strike layoffs cut deeply into some family budgets. The U. S. employment office estimated 50,000 persons were out of work because of the strike. All idled by the strike were immediately eligible for $20 weekly unemployment benefits.

Hitchhiking Now Fine Art.

Hitchhiking has been developed to a fine art. And people who never saw the inside of neighborhood railroad stations are now jamming local trains.

Everybody who owns or can borrow a car is driving and the city is experiencing the worst traffic jams in its history.

During the day, the city appears normal. But the streets are inky black at night.

There is little chance for Mrs. Housewife to get a respite from cooking and the woes of the meat shortage by going out to dinner. Many restaurants are closed.

One Section Hit Hard.

The power strike in its extreme has been felt in only one section of the city. Three hundred residents of Mt. Washington were without electricity for five days until wire repairs were made. Babies' milk soured, food spoiled and washing piled up. In a Lawrenceville home, darkened by wire trouble, a mother gave birth to a baby by light of four oil lamps and some candles.

But for most citizens the strike was just a nuisance.

"We could cripple along this way for months," summed up one realistic resident, a prominent novelist.

He added, "personally have rather appreciated the strike as it has for once given me a chance to work undisturbed by the howl of street cars outside the window."

MASTER PARK PLAN DRAWN AT KENTON

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 10—It was announced here Tuesday by Hugh Kayler, member of the Hardin County park commission, that the commission has entered into a contract with a firm of consulting engineers for the drawing of a master plan of all the area east of the golf course of Hardin County Veteran's Memorial Park.

The plan for more than half of the 90 acre park, one mile east of Kenton is expected to be finished within 30 days.

The plan will provide for suitable locations for a swimming pool; tennis, volley ball, horseshoe, shuffleboard, and croquet courts; shelter houses; picnic furnaces and tables; baseball and softball diamonds; bridle paths; drinking fountains; water and sewage lines.

The same plan will also provide for the landscaping of the grounds it was said.

The other two members of the three-man commission are: John Hastings and Frank Price of Kenton

Heirens Will Go To Hospital, Warden Says

By The Associated Press

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 10—William G. Heirens, 17-year-old triple murderer, will be taken to the state security hospital at Menard Monday, Warden Joseph E. Ragen of the Stateville prison, said yesterday after Heirens threw stones at a guard.

Ragen added that in a conversation with Heirens Tuesday night the boy threatened to commit suicide. "They're watching me too closely now," the warden quoted him, "but some day there'll be an opportunity, and I'll take advantage of it."

Although Heirens claimed to have thrown stones at a guard in hopes that he would shoot him in retaliation, no special watch is being put over Heirens, the warden said.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10—Editorials from the columns of the Marion Star and other newspapers will be featured on the "Background" program of Major General James E. Edmonds over WLW starting this week.

Comment from different publications will be heard on an editorial roundup, with editorial expressions on domestic and international issues spotlighted from several newspapers each night. The program is heard Monday through Friday at 11:15 p. m., EST., over WLW.

A native of New Orleans, whose father went to the Civil War from Piqua, Ohio, General Edmonds enlisted in the Louisiana National Guard in 1902 as a private in the cavalry. He served as a Field Artillery officer on the Mexican border in 1916 and 1917, and, during the first World War, as an artillery instructor at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and as a member of the Army General Staff in Washington.

On Jan. 6, 1941, General Edmonds was assigned to command of Camp Lee, Virginia, a post he held until his retirement from the Army on Dec. 31, 1943. During that period, more than 500,000 soldiers were trained under his command, and now are serving on every war front. Upon relief from active duty, General Edmonds was awarded the Legion of Merit for his outstanding services in the Army.

Along with his citizen-soldier military service, General Edmonds was a newspaper man, war correspondent and magazine writer, having been president and managing editor of the Baton Rouge State Times, and later, managing editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

A Cheerful Note Amid Shortages

NO MATTER how scarce many of the material commodities regarded as essential for the body may be, there is to be no lack of music as food for the souls and spirit of Marion residents.

This cheering fact is brought to our attention by the season's opening feature of the Marion Community Concert association, scheduled tonight at the Palace theater. The season's fine program of top rank ng musical stars will start with the noted pianists, Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe, and the long list of Concert association memberships assure them a large audience.

Following them during the course of the season will come other notables from the nation's outstanding stars in music, making certain that Marion is to gain new distinction as one of Ohio's major centers in this field of entertainment.

With the launching of this latest series of programs, Concert association leaders are entitled to congratulations and thanks for making possible the appearance of distinguished artists before residents of Marion and vicinity. This has been accomplished through efforts put forth entirely in the spirit of public service and is a contribution of extraordinary value to the community.

Much satisfaction is also to be derived from realization that each successful season adds to the assurance of permanency for the annual series of concerts.

It is a pleasure, indeed, in these days of confusion and uncertainty over the future, to know that, come what may, there will always be music, good music, and plenty of it for everybody.

To Investigate Investigations

THE last recourse of a man who is fresh out of answers is to demand an investigation—a deep-reaching one, fearless and without delay. Or if the man is almost out of answers and is stalling for time, a conference is almost as good.

Thus, on the occasion when President Truman had run out of answers for questions about abuses of organized labor's rights, he fell back on an investigation of the labor situation. And when Walter Reuther, fireball of United Automobile Workers, ran out of answers for questions about declining efficiency of labor in automobile plants, he fell back on a conference between labor and management.

There is undoubted merit in most investigations and conferences. There should be more of them. There is no lack of subjects to investigate and confer about. Neither is there any lack of thunder-voiced friends of the people who are promising to investigate and confer about them.

What the public would like to know is what becomes of all these people and of the investigations and conferences they are going to conduct and call. This country needs an investigation of investigations. Somewhere, dozens of them must be stalled, amid as many conferences that never got anywhere.

—And That's Why

THE Truman administration's handling of the meat shortage and the clenched-fist denunciations of stockgrowers by some of its allies for embarrassing the New Deal by being stubborn about prices reveal the deep chasm that keeps politicians from forming a permanent alliance with the agricultural minority.

All that stockgrowers, big and little, have done in effect is to engage in a meat stoppage over an issue of price. They must be astonished at the repercussions, which make the automobile, steel and coal strikes seem insignificant. They are being castigated and reviled by their own public officials, men whose mouths wouldn't melt butter when labor unions were engaged in bargaining that had even more serious consequences.

Not only are they the targets of angry words, but their government has gone to the trouble of trying to give them a black eye by dickering with Great Britain, of all countries, for a loan of 20,000,000 pounds of Argentine beef to feed United States troops in Europe and the Pacific. Experts predict a coal shortage this winter, but it isn't likely the United States would embarrass coal miners by asking the British to sacrifice coal to overcome the consequences of a miners' strike.

Politicians can get along with agriculture as long as agriculturalists and processors of agricultural products see things the politicians' way, but eventually they must reach the parting of the ways. Agriculture's job is to raise food for a living. That job now finds itself in conflict with the Truman administration. And that's why the New Deal, which used to count on getting the farm vote, now is in danger of losing that too.

FINISHING THE JOB

The latest is a threat from Illinois miners to strike in protest against the shortage of food. Now if only the food-producers will strike in protest at the lack of consumer goods we can all just shrivel up together.—Hartford Courant.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Stocks Down Despite Optimistic Steelman Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 — The Steelman report laid down statistics showing we're living in just about the best possible of all economies—but the stock market does not believe it.

The reconversion office director, John Steelman, told the President in his quarterly report that business profits are "at the highest point in history," farm income has risen to "an all-time high," production is at its top peacetime record, national income is unprecedentedly "the highest" and unemployment is a measly 2 million—yet the market fails.

Concerning this phenomenon, Mr. Steelman says only, "The severe decline in the stock market indicates uncertainties in the minds of business men." But about this Mr. Steelman has no uncertainty. He predicts "net income of proprietors, dividends, and other income payments will also increase." In the face of this official promise of greater earnings—the stock market continues to decline.

Confusing Situation

So the peculiar confusing condition has arisen in which no one denies the Steelman report yet no one pays much attention to it—a stalemate in optimism and pessimism in which no one seems likely to change his mind. The business people assert beyond their hands the report should have been issued by the Democratic congressional campaign committee, as it is purely a campaign document. The administration is taking the best possible—and in this case a wholly unrealistic-view of conditions, merely to influence the coming voters. No one has taken the report apart to ascertain where it is wrong, while conflicting claims fill the air and bewilder the judgment.

The fault behind the whole report is basic. You can see this perhaps most clearly in considering the claim that profits now are at an all-time high of history. They are. Steelman's figures calculate them at about $10 billions this year, while in 1941, the last peacetime year, they were around $9 billions. But Steelman has absolutely forgotten to measure this increase against the price hikes since 1941. If he did, he would find profits have declined. He has measured the dollar volume of profits without considering how the dollar has shrunk. He has truthfully compared figures which may be sound enough—to get an unsound result.

Thus his figures condemn his own conclusions. He says national income was $97 billions in 1941 when business acquired the $9 billions of profit, but now he says national income is $167 billions, and business earned only $10 billions. Thus he unwittingly concedes business is making much less profit in percentage of income from sales.

This gross defect half-justifies the comment so frequently heard among business people, namely, "We have had inflation for everything except profits."

Lack of Confidence

Now I do not feel much confidence in government statistics on prices or wages. I know wages have gone up only 18 to 27½ per cent in certain unions, but not generally. The national average must be far less than 18 per cent. Also I also know it costs me more to live now than the government index says it costs (ceilinged items are never available except in the indices, while non-ceilinged items cost much more than the government calculates for me.) In any event, I am willing to accept Steelman's conclusion that real wages (after taxes) are actually down some from pre-war days when measured against actual price increases. I know my own wage is—considerably.

In the face of this criss-crossed economic situation, you can well understand why the market goes down. General Motors and possibly U. S. Steel are not operating at a profit today. Investors fear the unions have squeezed much profit out of business, and with a sympathetic administration in power, will continue to squeeze the golden goose until all profits are gone, and the hazards of conducting a business do not warrant investment. Furthermore people have been throwing their money away, and as the Steelman report points out, there is danger that buying will not keep up at recent demand levels in the face of price increases.

For these reasons, seeing the most glorious business opportunity any nation ever had for indefinite peak good times fading upon the horizon, AFL President William Green practically joined Senator Byrd in demanding abandonment of OPA price ceilings, except for rents and some other items. Labor itself must be coming to the conclusion OPA should be relaxed to allow some inflation of business profits, or there will soon be less in the pot for wages. And Green is coming to this conclusion after having led the fight for OPA continuance. He now blames the act on congress.

His pressure at his AFL convention coupled with that of business may force the administration to drop its controls and reorder its economic line before election.

Don't Russians Believe In Sharing the Suspense?

A Moscow newspaper has denounced Sherlock Holmes, terming him dangerous to Soviet morals and ideologies.

Is there no place in the new order for such decadent ideas as that crime does not pay?

Or is it merely that the communal state refuses to sanction such evidences of inequality as the condescending "Elementary, my dear Watson?"

Could it even be that the Russian editors have confused the capable Sherlock with the capitalist Shylock?

At any rate, and for whatever the reason, the case histories of fiction's most famous sleuth are no longer recommended reading—even as Mien Kampf—in Russian libraries.

If Soviet readers go in for whodone-its, one supposes, they can always ponder such local mysteries as "The Cryptic Kremlin" or "The Case of the Missing Balkans."

Two Decisive States

By RAYMOND MOLEY

IF the forthcoming house election is anywhere near close, the state to watch is Pennsylvania. Twelve of its 33 congressmen were elected in 1944 by less than 55 per cent of the major party vote. From these reasonable close districts four Democrats and eight Republicans were elected. Three of the closely-held Republican districts are in the Pittsburgh area. Two of the closely held Democratic districts are in Philadelphia. Most of the rest of the close districts are in mining sections. Hence, the power of the labor auxiliaries of the Democratic party will be subjected to severe test.

The fight for the senatorship looms high over all these local contests. Governor Edward Martin is running against Senator Joseph F. Guffey, whose two previous victories have been won by strictly organization politics, by a liberal use of federal patronage and by Guffey's undeviating allegiance to President Roosevelt. Some of Guffey's advantage will be missing this year, and his opponent is the strongest he has ever faced. Martin has been a respected and vigorous governor. He has little of the handicap imposed on past Pennsylvania governors by unpopular local bosses and machines. He has in fact, created his own organization and has shown real independence in dealing with Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Republican leaders. If, as predicted by practically all the Pennsylvania political writers with whom I have talked, Martin beats Guffey soundly, he will not only carry with him the present House Republicans from the state, but will pick up from four to eight seats now held by Democrats. Some say that he will sweep all the six Philadelphia seats, but that seems, on the basis of past results, somewhat too many.

Baldwin in Connecticut

Connecticut's politics is dominated by the personality of Governor Raymond E. Baldwin, now running for senator. The Democrats made a gesture of resignation by nominating against Baldwin a man whose absence from the state for a considerable time makes him practically unknown. He is called a "kamikaze" candidate — a foredoomed sacrifice. Baldwin's chief concern is to keep Connecticut Republicans from an excess of confidence.

His election by a considerable majority will heavily affect the six congressional contests in the state. All six seats in the house were won in 1944 by less than 55 per cent of the major party vote. Four were Democrats; two, Republican. Four were won by less than 52 per cent. It looks now as if Baldwin's popularity will carry with him the congressman-at-large and the New Haven and Hartford districts — all of which are now Democratic. The Democratic congresswomen from New London, Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, has a fair chance of reelection, unless there is a nationwide Republican wave. One of the present Republican seats looks safe.

See Democratic Winner

The remaining seat, now held by Clare Booth Luce, is sought by John Davis Lodge, brother of Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts and inexperienced in politics. The Democrats made an inspired nomination against him. They selected Lt. Col. Henry A. Mucci, with 14 years Army service. Mucci is a super-war hero. He and his Rangers rescued some 500 American prisoners from behind the Japanese lines in 1945. He will be hard to beat.

A conservative guess is that Baldwin will win; that three seats now Democratic will go Republican and that one seat now Republican will be very close.

RIO DE JANEIRO—During a press conference here, Gen. Eisenhower asked Brazilian newspapermen to undertake the writing of the history of Brazil's expeditionary force which fought in Italy. He said the story of that expedition, from its training period to the day of the Allied victory in Europe, would make an important contribution to Brazilian and American history.

THE MIRAGE

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Oct. 10, 1936. Gov. Alf Landon, Republican nominee for president, invading Ohio aboard his "Sunflower Special" called on Buckeye state voters to take an active part in what he termed "the battle of the century" between "the American system of government" and "the alien" to previous history, and at Creston, Ia., President Roosevelt, campaigning for reelection on the Democratic ticket told a "grand crowd" that the New Deal had incurred a deficit of less than eight billion dollars but at the same time had boosted national income to more than 22 billions since 1932.

Announcement was made in Washington of the promotion of Walter T. Prendergast, former Marion man, from second secretary of the U. S. embassy at London to consul at Strasbourg, France. The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Prendergast of Marion, he entered the diplomatic service during the administration of President Harding.

Baruch's Plan for Bomb

By WALTER LIPPMANN

BERNARD BARUCH, speaking at Freedom House in New York, dwelt upon "the unqualified statement of Ambassador Gromyko" that "the American plan as presented" is "unacceptable to the Soviets, either in full or in part."

Where, then, do we go from here?

If I read Baruch correctly, we continue to manufacture atomic bombs until the Soviets decide to accept in full the American plan as presented.

That would be a satisfactory position if only it did not fail to take into account what Stalin has told us are the intentions of the Soviet Union.

For Stalin has made it plain enough that he does not expect to negotiate an international agreement until the Soviet Union also has an arsenal of atomic weapons.

The real situation, therefore, is not, as a reader of Baruch's speech might be led to think, that the United States — growing ever stronger in atomic weapons—can wait until the Soviets have been persuaded to reverse themselves by the righteousness of our proposal and the magnitude of our power. The calculation of the Soviets, which we must take very seriously, crosses up this theory of what is to happen.

For Stalin, like Baruch, feels he can wait. By waiting, Russia will have time to learn to manufacture her own atomic weapons.

There is only one way Baruch might deny the Russians the time to equip themselves with atomic weapons. That is if the United States attacked them with atomic bombs before they can make their own. Stalin indicated plainly he had taken this possibility into account and had concluded the Soviet Union could not be defeated in a preventive war.

Situation Different

Russia is not Japan nor is it England, crowded islands peculiarly vulnerable to atomic bombardment. Russia has abundantly the only known means of defense against the atomic bomb, namely space in which to dispose its people.

Russia, moreover, has a formidable military answer to the atomic bomb. She has inexhaustible reserves in infantry already deployed into the center of Europe and capable of overrunning the larger part of the continent.

Against the Red Army in Europe it would be impossible to use the atomic bomb, without exterminating hundreds, perhaps thousands of Europeans for every Red soldier killed. Europe is, therefore, a hostage against a preventative war.

If preventive war is ruled out, then Baruch cannot compel the Soviets to accept our plan as presented, and he cannot deny them the time to develop their own atomic weapons. And when they have developed them, Baruch will no longer be able to count upon the unanimous support of the non-Soviet nations.

Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, the Scandinavian countries, will, then, no longer be protected by our monopoly of atomic weapons. They will have become in the highest degree vulnerable to the Russian atomic weapons. They will be bound to prefer some kind of agreement to non-agreement.

We cannot, therefore, afford to congratulate ourselves that we have found the answer to the problem of the atomic bomb. We have explored, most brilliantly, the technical part of the problem in the Acheson-Lilienthal inquiry.

But there remains the problem of what to do, if our plan is not acceptable, about the race of armaments which is now under way.

Stalin in his interview has announced Russia is in the race and Baruch has now told us we are in the race. That is the net of it and we must not hide the situation or imagine the Baruch proposals are a policy which meets this situation.

For the situation that has to be met is the race of armaments which, when one puts side by side what Stalin said and what Baruch says, is now being run, with no statesman in any country making any move, offering any suggestion, to sop the race, to interrupt it, to delay it, even to discuss it.

Business of Statesmen

Yet that is the business of statesmen and I canot believe we are politically so bankrupt and intellectually so sterile that we must treat the Baruch plan as our last, our only and our perfected contribution to the subject.

For on Baruch's own showing his plan "AS PRESENTED" (the capitals are mine) has met an "unqualified" rejection, and on Stalin's statement there is a decision by the Soviets to attack the foundation of the plan—as presented — by depriving us of our monopoly of atomic weapons.

Unless Baruch can show that Stalin is mistaken — that Russia cannot break our monopoly or that we can stop her from breaking it—the American plan, as presented, will have to be reconsidered.

For while the project of a plan, as developed in the Acheson-Lilienthal report, may and probably will stand us as the best which has yet been devised, the presentation of that plan—that is to say, the strategy and tactics of the approach to it, the conception of how it is to be fitted into the international politics of the world as it is, the institutional and legal framework of the plan—the whole statesmanship of it, is as yet primitive, unproved and on Baruch's own report, leading not to agreement but to rivalry.

Daily Bible Thought

We have within us a hidden spark of the divine, which when we call into the open makes us sons of God with whom we can walk and talk, and get answers to our questions. John 5:24: "He that heareth my word and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation, but is passed from death unto life."

The Once Over

That "Voice of America" Idea

DAVID SARNOFF announces plans for using the radio for world peace through the establishment of a "The Voice of America" program to be broadcast to the point where "Accord" will be spelled backward and "Brotherly Love" sideways for 55 nations. The main point offering a problem at the minute is whether to give Russia more than five silver dollars if she answers the question, "Is The Old Oaken Bucket a brokerage office, a nightclub or a song?"

• • •

Those behind "The Voice of America" are hard at work on the features which each believes to be the heart of mass appeal, the radio jingles. But up to the moment they have not found any quite silly enough to reach the nations. The only two accepted so far are:

World wide order! That's a lot!
Love and kisses hit the spot!
Our world peace pills always work—
Uncle Sam is your prescription clerk!

• • •

Hi diddle diddle and rinky dink!
All hard feeling we must sink;
If you'd cure all this world's ills
Ask for "U.S. Headache Pills!"

• • •

They're not really silly enough, but they may do for a start.

Of course, on any international radio program from America we will have to work on the importance of the vitamin in eliminating international distrust, and the advantages of the U.N. "regulator" in creating better understanding. But there are certain dangers. Suppose the American program cures Germany of pink to the brush but does nothing for Rumania? What if we show India how to cure dandruff, but it still feels quarrelsome?

• • •

Couldn't more ill will, instead of less, develop? How will Russia feel if the quiz program jackpots are won by other countries, and will the British like it if Ireland gets the $12 for answering the question "Who wrote Alexander's Ragtime Band?"

• • •

A lot depends on the nature of the program used by "The Voice of America." Our ideas would include:

(1) Let The Kiddies Solve It. (Six children between the ages of three and seven constitute an international tribunal and answer any question sent in by any nation.)

(2) Telo-Test (Our Secretary of State sets up the secretaries of State of other countries hit or miss, from a phone book every morning and gives him a chance to win a jackpot by giving the first name of Hildegarde, the night club performer.)

(3) A "Mr. and Mrs. Breakfast Hour." (We might let Dorothy and Dick, or Tex and Jinx make a direct appeal to the Russian people for better understanding, with eggs on toast.)

(4) International Guest Star Hour. (Bess Beatty can get Joe Stalin on her program, Mary Margaret McBride can do her stuff with Mahatma Ghandi, and Maggie McNellis can spring Tito on her listeners.)

(5) Global Information Please. (Clifton Truman, Jonn LaGuardia, Franklin P. Wallace.)

(6) Ginny Simms, Jack Armstrong the All American Boy, A. L. Alexander, Fred Allen, Finnegan, Charley McCarthy, Jimmy Durante, the football scores and the correct time in radio liaison with Jimmy Byrnes, Senator Vandenberg, the White House and UN.

IT SEEMS LIKE YESTERDAY

Barney Oldfield, who died in bed, was our boyhood hero. We can still see the headline "Makes Nearly A Mile A Minute In Horseless Carriage."

Barney started out driving Henry Ford's first car, the 999, in Detroit. The day he did five miles in a little over five minutes was a day to make the people's eyes bulge. And when he was the first human being to move a mile a minute at Indianapolis in 1903, his picture took half a page in many newspapers. "He'll kill himself. No one can drive anything that fast and live!" everybody said.

Well, Barney died in bed. And every day hatches a new crop of speed-mad Americans who think a mile a minute is blocking traffic.

Light Dawns!

By TRUMAN TWILL

"RED HOT AMMONIA PISTOLS!" hissed Manville Twill the tomcat, arching his back and jumping a foot into the air.

"What's this?"

What's what, the other occupants of the living room wanted to know, as they stirred from their lethargy and looked at T. Manville's bristling fur and puffed-up tail.

"Why, this item I just read in the paper," said T. Manville. "How long has this been going on? Get me a mouthpiece. I never gave my permission to anyone to disgrace my name. I want to sue."

He was digging furiously with a front paw at a story in the evening paper: "Tommy's Ex-Wife Chased Home by Bugs." It was an Associated Press report from Mamaroneck, N. Y., which said Tommy Manville's eighth wife had attempted unsuccessfully to bring about a reconciliation because she wouldn't risk another visit in a New York hotel room full of bedbugs. She had run into a stone wall, the story related, because her husband said his Mamaroneck estate wasn't big enough to accommodate himself, No. 8 and prospective Wife No. 9.

T. Manville Twill the tomcat was interested this was a routine item of news, one more chapter in the matrimonial history of one of the country's wealthy young cutups, whose hobby was collecting brides. There was nothing startling about it, except the bedbugs. Someone was going to be sore about those.

"Don't give me that drool," snarled T. Manville, so angry he momentarily forgot his cat. He realized this and softened his voice. "I am not speaking of the bugs," he explained. "I am referring to the name. It happens to be my name, as you well know. Furthermore, it is the name you hung on me when I was an ignorant kitten. remember? Start talking. Was that your idea of humor? Do I sue this Manville person, or do I sue you?"

He said this dead-pan, but with the tip of his tail twitching ominously. The idea of being sued by a tomcat was ridiculous. There was laughter.

"I am not amused," snapped T. Manville. "I think a tomcat has no pride. You think it funny to name animals after human beings, never stopping to think that animals value their dignity and integrity. How would you like it if someone named you Rin-Tin-Tin? How would you like it if you were a skunk and someone named you Adolf Hitler? You would feel like sueing. Well, I would feel like sueing. I want a lawyer."

There was no point in continuing the conversation. T. Manville was serious. He was deeply shocked. Being no one's fool he knew he had a case. It was no use trying to explain to him that the T in his name might stand for Terence, Timothy, Theophilus, Thaddeus, Tobiah or Timon. It was no use trying to explain that Manville might be an old family name. But it will be a month of Sundays before he finds a lawyer to take the case, because any semblance to any person living or dead is purely coincidental. It's written down that way in the family Bible, on the same page with the rest of the family records.

CARDINGTON COUNCIL OKAYS BOND ISSUE

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON—At a special session of the village council Tuesday night an ordinance was passed authorizing the issuance of $65,000 in first mortgage revenue bonds on the Cardington waterworks system. The new issue will provide funds to redeem $30,000 in first mortgage revenue bonds which were issued Dec. 21, 1934, and the balance or $31,000 will be used on the contemplated improvement of the system.

When the system was originally built in 1936 the village issued $65,000 in first mortgage water revenue bonds which were held by the government and finally sold to a bonding company in Cedar Rapids, Ia. Bonds in the amount of $22,000 have been redeemed and the present holders have agreed to the redemption of the $35,000 still outstanding at par and accrued interest.

The water supply has been very low for the past six months due to an inadequate flow of water in the two wells on the present well site. Two six inch test wells 20 feet deep have been drilled on the Reece Burr farm and the new proposal calls for two wells 26 inches in diameter be drilled and a six inch line run down to the present site and connected to the system. The improvement also provides for extensions to be laid on East Walnut street and Third street.

Stopping of Heart for Operation Seen As Future Process

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10 — Dr. Claude S. Beck, who in 1935 performed the first successful operation directly on the heart to relieve angina pectoris, says the time is coming when heart surgeons will be able to stop and operate on the heart while keeping the brain alive with oxygenated blood.

His prediction was made at the 14th annual Institute of District 4, Ohio State Nurses association, yesterday.

Dr. Beck, associate surgeon at University hospitals and professor of neurosurgery at Western Reserve university's medical school, also saw the possibility that surgeons would be able to look inside the blood vessels and see their condition, with the aid of an instrument as yet non-existent.

Such an instrument, he said, might be a light with a series of lenses which could be put down the jugular vein and pushed into the ventricle. This approach, he added, would enable surgeons to perform operations revolutionizing the treatment of cardiovascular diseases.

Russians Face United Front

U. S., Britain and Turkey Stand Firm Against Soviet Demands.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct 10—The United States, Britain and Turkey are presenting a solid front of resistance to Russia's renewed demands on the Dardanelles, while leaving the way open to full discussion of revised Soviet rights in the straits

Diplomatic authorities disclosed this today as the state department announced a $25,000,000 credit to Greece—another troubled Mediterranean country—for the purchase of surplus army property overseas

That announcement is in line with informal conclusions reached by the British and American governments during the Greek civil war crisis about three weeks ago that the United States should back the present Greek government with substantial economic assistance

A similar decision is reported to have been taken in the case of Turkey

Greece Turkey and Iran all are considered key countries in the control of the Middle East and Eastern Mediterranean, around which one of the great conflicts of Russia and the Western powers has revolved for months The Dardanelles, geographically and strategically, is at the heart of this conflict.

Aug 7 Moscow sent to Ankara several demands for changes in the straits, including control by the so-called Black Sea powers which Russia dominates and joint defense of the important passage by Russia and Turkey

With American and British backing, Turkey rejected the latter two demands, and the United States took a similar view in a note to Russia Aug 19

Last month Russia sent Turkey a new note restating insistence on joint Russo-Turkish defense of the straits, defended only by Turkey, and calling also for direct negotiations between Ankara and Moscow.

According to diplomatic informants here, Turkey now is replying to Moscow with another flat rejection of the joint defense proposal but leaving the way open for direct talks on the future of the Dardanelles

Furthermore it was said that the United States is sending Russia a note reiterating its opposition to any Russian military expansion into the Dardanelles Britain is reported to have taken a similarly flat stand

Marionites See Brilliant Meteor Display As Earth Passes Through Comet's Tail

Marion last night had a fairly good view of the celestial snow put on by "shooting stars" as meteors from the tail of Comet Giacobini-Zinner flashed through the earth's atmosphere

The display was dimmed somewhat by a brilliant full moon and by fleecy clouds which partially obscured vision in the northwest section of the city The display was visible over most of the United States, except where clouds interfered

Many Marionites stood in their back yards to watch the display which began to take on active interest about 9 p m and reached its peak shortly after 10 p m One particularly brilliant meteor streaked southward across the western sky about 10 15 p m It appeared to be the size of a dinner plate and formed a glowing aurora as it flashed momentarily behind a fleecy cloud

Most of the United States was treated to the spectacular display said by some scientists to be the most brilliant exhibition seen in America this century.

But dense clouds marked or completely obliterated the view for many watchers of the skies in some sections of the country The Associated Press reported.

Radar Used First Time

Scientists used radar and for the first recorded time reported they "saw" a display of meteors beyond fog and clouds Observers from the national bureau of standards in Washington said they were sure that "pips" appearing on the radar screen represented meteors about 50 miles from earth.

Other scientists boarded airplanes to get above thick clouds for a glimpse of the aerial fireworks and Harvard astronomers in an "aerial planetarium" reported seeing meteors at the rate of about 17 per minute

Joint Army Air Forces-Signal Corps observers at White Sands, N M, reported to Camp Evans, U S Signal corps laboratory at Belmar N J, that they contacted the meteor showers with radar at varied distances from 45 to 180 miles

The display resulted as the earth came within 131 000 miles of the spot in space through which the comet passed eight days ago

The meteors were shed by the comet and formed part of its tail Those seen on the earth were those caught by the earth's gravitational pull and consumed for the most part as they plunged through the earth's air shell.

Counts 149 in 10 Minutes

Wagner Seniesinger, director of the Adler Planetarium in Chicago, said he counted 149 flashing projectiles in a 10-minute peak period starting at 10 49 p m and said the display was unmatched in this country during the present century.

Ensley Johnson Sr, president of the Indiana Astronomical society said the display in Indianapolis was the most spectacular he ever saw and similar views were expressed by scientists in Duluth, Superior, Wis, and Berkeley, Calif.

Dr J J Nassau of the Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland said the peak period was reached at 10 45 p m, when he counted the meteors at about 100 per minute

Clear skies gave Cincinnatians a good view of the extravaganza They watched the show from rooftops in the downtown area, from streets in the suburbs The first shooting stars were visible at about 9 p m and began to diminish nearly two hours later

U.S. LUTHERANS MOVE FOR EVENTUAL UNITY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct 10—Two new moves looking toward eventual unity of all Lutheran churches in America were expected to be approved at today's sessions of the 15th biennial convention of the United Lutheran church.

One was the proposal by the church's official youth organization the Luther League of America, that its 1949 convention be held in Minneapolis simultaneously with that of other Lutheran youth groups of the National Lutheran council

The second move was the recommendation by the Women's Missionary society of the ULC that an assembly of all women's groups in the National Lutheran Council be held by the fall of 1947.

Rev. Joseph Freese, executive secretary of the Luther League, announced that organization would send delegates to the World Christian Youth Conference at Oslo next July

Mr Freese also reported the Luther league has set a goal of $25,000 to provide a lay worker to assist missionaries in China and erect a peace memorial high school, chapel and parsonage at Skeldon, British Guiana—a goal to be reached by the 1949 convention

The league presented a $5 000 check to Dr Franklin Clark Fry, ULC president, to be used for church reconstruction in Hungary

Establishment of a deaconess motherhouse in Rajamundry, India, was announced last night by the church's board of deaconesses

Decent Dwellings For All Is Termed Most Pressing Job

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct 10—The need for decent dwellings in neighborhoods providing whole some living environment for all American families presents the most challenging job yet faced by public housing agencies, Dillon S Meyer, new commissioner of the federal public housing authority, declared today.

"A shocking number of American families, including veterans families, are living under substandard conditions or in rooms without housekeeping facilities,' Myer said in his first public address as FPHA commissioner, prepared for delivery before the National Association of Housing Officials.

He said some 12,500 000 new homes are needed during the next 10 years To support this, he cited a census bureau survey indicating 2,100 000 veterans in nonfarm areas are living in substandard housing and about 2,000 000 married veterans are doubled up with other families

"In most cities and towns, large central areas are stagnant pools of blight and decay To millions of American families, the slum—with its squalor, ugliness and shabby futility—is home."

Myer endorsed the Wagner-Ellender-Taft housing bill as "the first comprehensive approach to housing," and said its tools provide for urban redevelopment, research and local planning

'That means clean, wholesome neighborhoods and good housing in sufficient quantity for American families at every level of income,' he said

COST OF EATING OUT TAKES JUMP TODAY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct 10—The cost of eating out went up today as restaurant operators throughout the country posted new menu prices for meat dishes under the 15 per cent increase authorized by OPA

While the price boost applies to all meat items from hamburgers to steaks, one restaurant association official said last week some operators were expected to take advantage of only part of the 15 per cent increase allowed

The price hikes will spread to another front tomorrow when price lids will be lifted on all meals, food items and beverages served on railroad dining cars, cafe cars and club cars

In a separate action today, OPA allowed California processors of tomato paste a maximum price increase of 4 6 per cent because of higher raw vegetable costs

Rev Lammers joined the shipment at Willard B and O railroad yards this week, where Rev Vincent Bucher of Gladden, Mo, was also attached to the car which has been especially fitted to accommodate both the animals and the two pastor attendants.

The shipment is the result of many months of effort on the part of the two pastors to collect the animals for dispatch to Albania The shipment will be placed aboard ship at Baltimore harbor The animals came from Ohio, Indiana and New York state and include a number of well known breeds Their purchase was financed by funds made available at the Tiffin summer school, the Dunkirk conference and the College Hill vacation church school, the latter in Crawford county Shipment of the animals is a part of the nation-wide movement to send aid to Europe

Rev Lammers explained that goats are considered the best type animal for the purpose because of their small needs of food and their high milk producing ability.

Undamaged Krupp Home Now British Office

By JAMES DEVLIN
Associated Press Writer

ESSEN, GERMANY—The showplace home of the Krupp family stands undamaged only a few miles from the bomb-blasted Krupp Munitions Works and the shattered homes of the steel workers and coal miners.

A four-story, gray stone building surrounded by green acres—like a city hall in the middle of a central park—it is known simply as Villa Huegel, the "House on the Hill."

Once occupied by nine Krupps, mother, father and seven children, the vast domicile serves now as an office for almost 500 workers of the British-operated North German Coal Control, in charge of Ruhr coal production.

The Krupps have left, but there are many traces of the majestic scale on which the family lived.

Their dining room table measures 60 feet from end to end, and they had single piece tablecloths long enough to cover it.

120 Eat at Table.

Now, with the number of overlapping cloths to cover the table, 120 British military government officers eat there with members of a French coal commission.

The table by no means occupies all the space in the room and has been moved a bit to one side to permit the addition of eight or ten smaller tables for four.

To the rear of the dining room, and overlooking a grotto or walled garden with fountains, is a library with 27,000 volumes. Written in a number of languages, they mostly concern art and politics. Members of the staff are welcome to borrow the books. The Krupp librarian still puts in an appearance every day to keep the catalogues in order.

A tub in the "master bathroom" is a triumph of ingenuity. Instead of having only hot and cold faucets like ordinary tubs, this has about a dozen extra. Each provides its own brand of invigorating tonic water.

16 Oil Paintings.

The main reception hall, more than 100 feet long, is lined with 16 large oil paintings, chiefly of the Krupp and the emperor's family. The flooring is of Polish parquet and, 25 feet overhead, is the oak carved ceiling. For lighting there are five chandeliers with 400 bulbs.

Above the reception room and of equal proportions is a ballroom with a high arched glass roof. Temporary partitions have been erected in the ballroom, which served as a main office. Executive offices are in lounge rooms off the ballroom.

No rain falls on the ballroom's glass roof, for above that is something of a solarium, covered by another roof.

Catwalks in the solarium give a visitor an impression of being on the bridge of a ship. There is a commanding view of the hills and farm country around the Baldeney See river.

American troops used the catwalks as an artillery observation post for directing fire against Werden, the next town to the south.

Lost in Basement.

A guide insisted there was a swimming pool in the basement of the immense building, but got lost and couldn't find it. He showed a picture of the pool, tiled with a wrought iron fence around it and a statue of a smiling cupid.

Alfred Krupp, the man who brought world-wide fame to the family name, began construction of the house in 1870. He intended it to be fit for visits by kings and emperors but declined to describe the place as a castle. He gave it the name Villa Huegel.

While devoting much attention to the massive structure itself, he imported whole avenues of trees to enhance the grounds. Amid the shrubs there are two ponds, one stocked with carp.

Scattered about the grounds are statues. One, of a collie dog, appears to have been erected by the Krupp children as a memorial to their pets. The base bears names such as Sport, Lumpl, Rooti, Fix, Fox and Nora. The dog's head is broken.

Nearby lie the tail of a bomb and a piece of fuselage from an airplane that apparently had exploded in the sky.

SEIZED IN THEFT. Held without bail, Eugene Striplin (above), 26, was booked on suspicion of grand theft and armed robbery, in San Bernardino, Cal., after nightclub impresario Earl Carroll and his chauffeur were robbed and kidnaped by a lone gunman and dumped on a street corner in Hollywood. Striplin was caught driving Carroll's limousine. The producer told police the gunman stole $400 from him as he was about to enter his home.

YOUR HEALTH

By EDWIN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Helpful for Ulcer

Something new has been added to the treatment of stomach ulcer. First reports indicate that it may well make all the difference between a slow, long-delayed healing, and a short, three-weeks cure.

The something new is a high protein diet, using predigested protein plus rest in bed.

According to Dr. Vincent J. Vinci and his co-workers of Connecticut, who tried out this new, double-barreled treatment on 30 patients, its results are far superior to the ordinary type of treatment.

Now, stomach ulcer is a very painful disorder. Pain usually comes on one to three hours after meals and is sometimes accompanied by sickness to the stomach and vomiting. It is made worse by the taking of protein-rich foods, such as meat, and is relieved by the taking of alkaline substances, such as soda, and the eating of soft foods.

The usual treatment for ulcer is based on these facts. It consists in the use of alkaline substances to lessen the acidity of the stomach, preparations to control excessive secretion of stomach juices, and a diet made up of milk, cream and soft cereals. Freedom from worry, in so far as possible, is also stressed.

Not only are proteins lacking in the usual ulcer diet, but the diet is also low in calories. Under these circumstances it is only natural that Dr. Vinci should find the ulcer patient underweight, lacking in energy, and showing signs of protein starvation.

Since ulcer patients cannot tolerate the ordinary protein foods, Dr. Vinci tried treatment with a special food rich in predigested protein, that is, protein which had been acted on by digestive substances. Thus the protein could be absorbed directly and the ulcerated stomach spared its usual task of preparing the protein for the body's use.

The diet contained also, sugar, milk, cream, cereal, and soft-boiled eggs, in addition to the predigested protein food. Vitamin preparations were given separately. No other medication was employed, but the patient was kept at almost complete rest in bed.

With this treatment, it was found that pain relief was quickly produced. The patient's nutrition was rapidly improved and he felt better. Practically all the patients showed a gain in weight. After about three weeks of treatment, the symptoms disappeared completely and X-rays showed that the ulcer had healed.

A number of the patients had the type of ulcer which required operations but the high protein feeding was employed prior to operation and brought about improvement so that the patients were better able to withstand the operative procedure.

Here, once again, we have a further demonstration of the value of protein, and see that it is of immense importance not only in health but in disease. Apparently, if the body is supplied with the protein it needs, it can make its own speedy repair of diseased tissue.

DAIRY CATTLE SHOW SET AT COLUMBUS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10—Judges will eye some of America's finest dairy cattle at the Ohio state fairground coliseum today where the All-American Jersey cattle show's senior exhibit opens a competition continuing through Friday.

Dr. W. W. Yapp of Champaign, Ill., and J. W. Ridgeway of San Antonio, Tex., will judge 348 head of cattle.

On Saturday two cattle sales will be held—a sale of inspected Jerseys at 1 p. m. and the annual Ohio Jersey cattle sale at 6 p. m.

A junior show, held yesterday for Future Farmers of America and 4-H club members who exhibited 343 head of cattle, produced one Ohio first-place winner—Oxford Forward Flick, owned by Gertrude Hoffman of Napoleon, O., and rated the best two-year-old cow.

John H. Kraft, president of the Kraft Foods Co., of Chicago, spoke to the dairymen last night predicting that "a 100 per cent increase in milk production" would be needed by 1960 if the world's population increases normally.

To meet the increased demand Kraft said dairymen should "raise the national average of 169 pounds of butterfat per cow per year, strive for more even production throughout the year, care for land under cultivation, use all agencies established to help dairymen, and use better tools."

VETERANS' NEWS AND INFORMATION

• • • • • •

Prepared by The Public Relations Service, Veterans Administration, Branch Office No. 6, 38 S. Starting street, Columbus, 8, Ohio. Phone Main 6361; Ext. 281.

HANDICAPPED VETERANS SUCCESS IN BUSINESS

Vocational advisement and guidance, which is required by the Veterans Administration before disabled veterans are placed in on-the-job training, is of material benefit to employers who establish on-the-job training courses, Ralph H. Stone, deputy administrator of the VA's Ohio-Michigan-Kentucky Branch Office in Columbus, said this week.

Pointing out that VA's responsibility under the law is concerned primarily with the training necessary to equip disabled veterans for gainful employment, Mr. Stone declared that VA will cooperate whole-heartedly with other interested agencies in promoting "National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" October 6-12.

Before a disabled veteran is assigned to an on-the-job training course, his mental and physical capabilities are carefully analyzed at an advisement and guidance center. A careful study of the physical requirements of the job to be undertaken is made in advance to determine that the disabled veteran will adopt himself successfully to the work.

While taking on-the-job training, disabled veterans benefit from VA supervision and financial assistance. A complete training program is planned jointly by the employer, a VA training officer, and the veteran himself. The total of the trainee's subsistence allowance from VA and his employer-paid training wage cannot exceed the pay of an experienced worker, or journeyman, during the training period.

Figures from the Columbus Branch Office show that approximately 6,900 disabled veterans are receiving on-the-job training to overcome their war-incurred handicaps. Stating that "the biggest handicap for many of the disabled veterans is not their disabilities, but the false conception which some employers have regarding the ability of these veterans," Mr. Stone declared that "VA will do all in its power to help veterans who are physically-handicapped to assume their places in employment with dignity and confidence as self-sustained, productive American citizens."

Employers who are willing to accept disabled veterans as trainees in their establishments are urged to contact the nearest VA office.

• • •

INCORRECT ADDRESS SLOWS UP VA CHECKS

Veterans, their dependents and beneficiaries who are in receipt of monetary benefits from the Veterans Administration must notify VA immediately upon changing their legal mailing address, it was emphasized at the VA's Ohio-Michigan-Kentucky Branch Office in Columbus.

Failure to provide VA with notice of a change in address may result in an indefinite delay in the delivery of checks for subsistence allowances, insurance benefits and disability and death compensation. In recent weeks approximately 1,200 checks could not be delivered in Michigan, and 2,000 in Ohio, the result of incorrect addresses.

• • •

THREE-WAY RADIOS IN VA HOSPITALS

Two Veterans Administration hospitals in Ohio and one in Kentucky are among 30 VA hospitals in the nation in which three-channel radio receiving equipment will be installed during the coming year. The equipment, which allows patients a choice of three radio programs instead of one as at present, will be installed eventually in all VA hospital and homes. During the coming year the equipment will be installed in Brocksville and Dayton hospitals in Ohio and in the VA hospital at Outwood, Kentucky.

A new three-way selector switch, developed by VA engineers, will permit patients to change programs by merely pulling a string attached to a switch above their heads. Another innovation for patients is the pillow-phone, which fits underneath pillows, allowing patients to lie down while listening. Patients who are hard of hearing will be provided with an instrument which increases the volume of sound materially. It is similar to a physician's stethescope and fits into patients' ears while they are listening to broadcasts.

• • •

VETS IN SCHOOL MUST FOLLOW REGULATIONS

Veterans attending educational institutions under provisions of the G. I. Bill must comply with the regularly prescribed standards and practices of the institutions during their period of enrollment, was the advice of VA officials at the Columbus Branch Office for Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

Government-paid tuition to an educational institution does not place a veteran in a "special privilege" status, nor does it constitute a ticket on the so-called "gravy train," VA officials said. Student veterans must abide by all of the rules and regulations, and of course, maintain satisfactory academic marks. Willful misconduct or unsatisfactory progress are grounds for with-drawal of subsistence and tuition payments.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. What benefit does the veteran get from having the Veterans Administration guarantee the loan?

A. A guarantee by the Veterans Administration means that the credit of the United States Government stands behind the guaranteed part of the loan. The security a veteran can offer a lender is increased by the amount of the guarantee.

Q. How can I arrange to have my National Service Life Insurance premiums deducted from the disability compensation checks I receive from Veterans Administration?

A. You can do this if you will go to any Veterans Administration office and fill out a form authorizing VA to make the deductions from your compensation payments.

Q. Before the G. I. Bill was amended, I used up my whole guarantee of $2,000 to buy a farm. Now that the maximum guarantee has been increased to $4,000, would I be entitled to an additional $2,000 loan-guarantee if I wish to purchase more land?

A. Yes. If you used part or all of your loan guarantee before the Servicemen's Readjustment Act (G. I. Bill) was amended last winter, the amount of loan-guarantee credit used is deducted from the amount for which you are eligible under the amended bill, and the remainder is the amount of guaranteed credit which you may use in obtaining future loans.

ROSS TO PORTER: Paul A. Porter, above, of Joplin, Mo., OPA chief and former chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, is being mentioned by Washington observers as a successor to Charles Ross, who, it is rumored, will lose his job as presidential press secretary due to the recent bungling in that department in connection with the Wallace flare-up.

COUNTY ACCEPTS COMPLETED ROAD

Payment Made to Contractor on New Construction.

The Marion county engineer's today announced completion and acceptance of the contract of C. W. Seckel of Caledonia for the reconstruction of the Marion-Williamsport road, No. 162 E and F.

Work consisted of regrading the berms and ditches and laying of a four-inch course of waterbound stone macadam over the entire length, using 4,655 tons of stone and moving 4,041 cubic yards of dirt.

The contract specified the hauling of 1,557 cubic yards of dirt to a bridge dyke on the Roberts road and only 366 cubic yards were hauled to this site, making a deduction in the contract, County Engineer Walter W. Johnson said.

The contract, as entered into with the county commissioners called for completion of the project by July 20, but due to delays in relocating power and telephone lines and also to rainy weather, commissioners granted the contractor an extension of time.

The contractor was paid $16,522.82, which was $473.55 under the contract price, Mr. Johnson said.

PLEAS FOR HANDICAPPED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10—Ohio employers were asked today by the United States employment service's state director, Paul H. Moltz, to realize that "it's good business to hire the handicapped." Ohio has about 20,000 disabled persons—many of them war veterans—seeking work, Moltz reported. The experience of 4,413 placements of handicapped persons in the first six months of the year has demonstrated, he said, that physical handicaps have not impaired the capacities of these workers to perform skilled jobs.

TAXIDERMY ON WANE
By The Associated Press
LONDON—With the best operators attracted to the United States by higher wages, taxidermy is in danger of becoming a lost art in Britain. Most of the work, even of the large museums, is left to a few remaining firms in London.
The odd jobs, which once kept the village taxidermist busy, have disappeared almost entirely. The decline in hunting has reduced the demand.

KENTON AUTHORIZES DRAWING OF PLANS

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 10—The Kenton city council took its second step toward a new sewage disposal plant for the city of Kenton when it passed a resolution Monday evening authorizing the city safety-service director to enter into an agreement with an engineering firm for the drawing up of detailed plans and specifications of the proposed plants. A preliminary survey had been previously made. The resolution was given the first of three readings Monday before it becomes effective.

The council received a petition from all the employees of the city waterworks and street departments Monday requesting an increase in pay. No action other than referring the request to the finance committee was taken.

A representative of the New York Central Railroad assured the council, that short-arm gates and flashers would be erected, at that railroad's two main crossings in Kenton as soon as equipment is available.

The council had previously requested that the railroad take that action after several accidents had occurred at the two dangerous crossings.

1,825 Meals Served to Prisoners in Jail

During September 1,825 meals were served at the Marion county jail, according to a report today from the Marion county sheriff, Roy Retterer.

Two persons were taken to the state reformatory at Mansfield by the sheriff's department, three to the state hospital in Columbus, one to the Columbus detention home and two to the Columbus workhouse. Thirty persons served out their time in the county jail during September.

The sheriff's report also shows that 273 papers, including 139 subpoenas and 38 divorce papers were served by sheriff's officers in September and $933 for fines paid by prisoners to the sheriff was turned over to Municipal court.

Poundage Payments Due Farmers on Seed Crop

Poundage payments for red clover, alsike and alfalfa seed are available to farmers who have harvested seed this year, according to a report today from Frank G. Montgomery, Marion county AAA chairman.

Nine cents a pound subsidies will be paid for red clover seed and seven cents for alsike and alfalfa seed, Mr. Montgomery said. The seed must be sold to a dealer before Jan. 1 to secure the benefit, and receipts from the dealer must be submitted to the AAA office. The payments will be included in the farmer's soil conservation check.

Ohio CIO Says Bricker Won't Get PAC Backing

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10—The Ohio CIO declared today that John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for U. S. senator, would never receive the endorsement of its political action committee "until he repudiates his Wall Street backers and learns to place human values above dollar values."

The CIO statement was a reply to Bricker's remark that "I hope I never live to serve in public office with the endorsement of the PAC and other Communist-dominated groups."

William Lavelle, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO, added: "For the record, however, let me point out that the Republican national committee sought support from our recent state convention. Is Mr. Bricker, in his holier-than-thou attitude, merely indulging in some political sour grapes?"

Richwood Man Ordered To Pay $375 Damages

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 10—George Gregg, Jr., of Richwood lost his driving rights for two years and must pay property damages of $375 or spend six months in jail, according to a ruling by Judge R. L. Cameron of common pleas court. Gregg pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident in Richwood

Gregg's auto struck a car owned by Don Beeney of Richwood in that village and then went over the curb and smashed the display window of the Winters furniture store. Gregg drove from the scene to Lake Baccarat near Richwood and drove his old auto into the lake, leaping out before it went into the lake.

Fires So Far This Year Exceed Average Number for 12 Months

Marion so far this year surpassed the total annual number of fires for several years back, Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt said today in emphasizing the importance of Fire Prevention Week.

The department was continually today in a check of business and industrial places in the city, in cooperation with Chamber of Commerce members.

There have been 222 fires in the city to date, the chief said, compared with 192 in all of 1945. The average number of fires from 1940 to 1944 was 184.

Sifritt laid the increase in the number of fires primarily to the unusually dry weather this year. Several of the fires were caused, however, he said, by parents allowing children access to matches.

Most Fires Small

Most of the fires this year have been small. Loss is estimated as less than $20,000. Loss in 1945 was about $35,000 and from 1940 to 1944 the averages $73,000. Average number of fires of more than $10,000 loss in recent years has been seven, but only two fires of that size have occurred so far this year.

Chief Sifritt indicated that equipment and manpower in the fire department is adequate for the present, except for two pieces which are 30 years old and which he believes should be replaced. The department has eight pieces among three stations and a personnel of 38 men.

The city has made gains in supplying adequate fire protection in the last couple of years, the chief said. He pointed out that in 1945 five miles of new water mains were laid and 27 new hydrants were installed. Most of this work was done in the northeast and southwest parts of the city.

The city council has shown interest in defining the city's fire protection obligations. An agreement was completed with township authorities to furnish fire protection in the township. Formerly there was no such agreement and trips outside corporation limits were hit-or-miss.

Waldo Agreement

Council also has attempted to make agreements with surrounding communities to exchange apparatus in case of large fires. Only agreement which has been completed so far, however, is with Waldo.

Fire loss last month, the fire report reveals, amounted to $1,235 compared with a loss of $822.73 during September 1945. Fire calls answered in September were 44, 32 were answered in September last year. Fire department salaries for the month totaled $7,132.50.

The Marion Engineer Depot, a War Department installation, reported today a total fire loss of approximately $500 since its activation in 1942. This record was made possible through a cooperative system of fire prevention covering a continuous plan of inspection of ground and buildings and a continuing program of fire extinguishment procedures train-ing.

Insurance Company Dinner Held at Hotel

A dinner meeting of the Ohio Central agency of the Commonwealth Life Insurance Co was held at Hotel Harding last night with wives of the agents as guests. Representatives of the home office in Louisville, Ky., William R Davis, director of agencies and Oliver R. Aspergren, supervisor of the home office, were present and spoke. Rev Marvin Lewis was a guest speaker at the monthly dinner meeting of the Marion camp of Gideons at the United Brethren Community house Tuesday night. His topic was "The Importance of Studying the Bible." He emphasized that it is not our prerogative to judge the Word of God, but that the Word is "quick and powerful — a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart."

Clifford Ward, chapter conducted devotions and led in the singing of gospel hymns and choruses. Testimonies were given by several Gideons, and prayer was offered by H. J. Klinefelter. Mrs. Irwin Jobe sang two numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Dutt.

Television Seen as No Threat to Newspapers

NEW YORK Oct 10 — M H Aylesworth, advisor to industry, said today it was "impossible for television to take the place of the newspaper" but added it was difficult to imagine a paper of the future without "a television station or an association with a television station."

"If interesting photographs, live moving models, and live demonstrations of food and cosmetic will not sell the people and send them into stores, we must lose our faith in all advertising of the past," he said in a speech prepared for the second television conference.

Aylesworth, first president of the National Broadcasting Co expressed the belief that the newspaper also would not be replaced by facsimile reproduction.

"It is impossible for television to take the place of the newspaper," Aylesworth said, "but welded together television will add to the attractiveness of the newspaper in the home and also promote its drawing power as an up-to-date medium of expression."

RUSS EMBASSY SAYS U. S. OFFICIALS ERRED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Oct 10—The Russian embassy today described as "not correct" the statements of American customs officials that Soviet Ambassador Nikolai V Novikov was given "the usual clip on the courtesies" on his arrival in New York last Friday.

Mikhail S Varvlov, first secretary of the embassy said statements by Harry M Durning, collector of the port of New York, and William P. Johnson, customs commissioner "do not give a true picture of the incident."

Varvlov made the remarks at an embassy news conference—one of the few called there in recent years.

His statements on the incident were said by informed officials to repeat for the most part the contentions in a protest note sent by the embassy to the state department Saturday.

Varvlov said he first had thought that the tactless treatment of Novikov had been due to lack of experience on the part of immigration officials.

Therefore he said, he was surprised when he read the statements of Durning and Johnson, and complained the treatment given the ambassador of these officials.

HARDING AND ST. MARY SET FOR TOUGH GRID BATTLES

Lima-Bound Prexies Set for Upset Despite Underdog Role

BY GEORGE ROEST

Friday night will see two school boy elevens with a high regard for one another meet when Harding classes with Lima Senior under the arcs at Lima. The contest will get underway at 8 p. m.

Once again the Prexies are rated on the short end of the odds but the chief claim that the Lima club has to the favorites' position is its victories over Findlay and Dayton Roosevelt in their first two games.

As yet the Presidents haven't been able to place themselves in the win column but of the four teams they have met only one Piqua, has dropped a contest this season. Mansfield is making a bid for top honors in the state and Columbus Linden McKinley has only the tie handed it by Harding to keep off the list of teams with perfect records. In the Barberton contests last week it was hard to tell from the teams performances which was the favorites, and had the locals been more experienced the outcome might have been much different.

Scoring Department Weak

In the scoring department Lima has run up a total of 62 points against their opposition's 54, while Harding has been able to eke out only 13 points while their opponents likewise have rolled up a total of 60. Lima has 10 lettermen on the squad five of them regulars from last year. As for average weights both teams will be evenly matched in that department.

Feeling more confident after last week's contest, Coach Thomas has predicted that his charges will give the Lima team a real scrap even if they don't turn in a victory while the team members are going out on a limb and promising to bring a win home with them Friday night.

The Chief Executives are due to pull an upset soon and maybe this will be the game in which they turn the trick. How they go in this fracas will also have an important bearing on their next week's engagement with Findlay. Lima downed Findlay 31 to 19 so a good showing or victory at Lima will make Harding odds on favorites in that contest.

No Ease for Lima

The Lima machine is not expecting to have an easy time of it tomorrow night, the opinion in that school being that this is going to be an even match.

Both teams seem to be more or less inconsistent in their playing, turning in good performances one weekend and the next looking like a different club. Harding has not shown up on foreign fields as well as they manage to do in their own stadium but this is the third time the team has had to travel and by now some stability has probably been instilled into the squad. Where they are playing should not greatly affect their chances. If however the out-of-town jinx should pop up again, the Prexies will again finish on the short end of the score.

Most noticeable improvement in the Harding team last week was shown in line play. On defense aggressiveness was evident and, when the Marion club had possession of the ball, an ability to open up holes for the ball carriers was shown. Another nemesis of the Harding pigskin toters, fumbling, cost the Harding team several chances to penetrate to the Barberton goal line.

There are still a lot of things unpredictable about the Harding squad and how they will come out, but the certain fact about the game is that it will be close, and hard played. Lima has the edge when figuring statistically but the Prexies are certainly not outclassed, and an upset is not improbable.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON, Oct. 10 — A crowd of newsmen were around the batting cage before yesterday's World Series game waiting for Ted Williams to take his licks. When he was slow to appear, some one suggested "Maybe he's down under the stands learning to bunt." There was more than a little truth in that remark, for the first chance he got, Williams pushed one down the third base line for an easy base hit and forced Eddie Dyer to revise his "T" for Ted formation. "Maybe we'll have to try the single or double wing next," Dyer admitted. "I'd like to keep Williams quiet but I don't think he will. He's too good a hitter and all the shifts in the world won't stop him if he pokes one into the stands."

• • •

Take Your Choice

Al Schacht, who is on hand to entertain the fans as usual, offered his services to the Cards as a pitcher yesterday. "Better warm up," Manager Dyer told him. "We've been holding these fellows down too long." Al grinned. "Okay," he said, "but do you want me to pitch for you or against you?"

• • •

Beantown Breezes

The Cards apparently know all about the beef shortage. Their first game pitcher, Howie Pollet, weighs only 170 pounds. Then came Harry Brecheen, 160, and Murry Dickson, 155. Joe Cronin was laughing about his small boy, who remarked: "It's a big day, daddy. It's world serious." Maybe the kid had the right word, at that. The Boston fans didn't seem to be regarding the "serious" any too seriously, judging from the way they took their time about filling the bleachers and their apathy, until Williams finally got a hit. But they really gave Ted a big hand when he decided to bunt.

• • •

Praise Dept.

Shag Shaughnessy, International league president, would rather talk about Jackie Robinson's performances in the Little World Series than anything he has seen in the big show. "He's the smartest ball player I have seen in 20 years," Shag insists. "I don't see how they can keep him off the Doodgers next year." Another International leaguer claims Jackie could bunt .260 in the National league.

Women's Texas Golf Open in Quarter-Finals

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 10—The Texas Women's Open Golf tournament entered its quarter-final round today with Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the national amateur champion, meeting Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., but with a battle between Patty Berg and Betty Jameson sharing top billing.

Winners of these two matches will clash in tomorrow's semi-finals.

Mrs. Zaharias, the Denver, Colo., star seeking her fifth triumph in six starts this year, was medalist and marched through her first and second round opponents with comparative ease. She won the opener 5-4 over Mrs. Harold Weilbacher of San Antonio and yesterday came in with an 8-7 victory over Mrs. John Mays of Fort Worth.

Her quarter-final opponent, Miss Lenczyk, defeated Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., 1 up.

WALKER CUP GOLF TILTS TO RESUME

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 — Eight of Uncle Sam's best amateur golfers are going to Great Britain next year in an attempt to bring back the United States Golf Association trophy—better known as the Walker cup.

This was disclosed, somewhat unexpectedly today by the USGA, which announced that the international matches between amateur teams of Great Britain and the United States would be resumed at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 16 and 17, 1947.

The trophy has remained in Britain since 1938, when the British team scored its first victory in the series, defeating the Americans at St. Andrews, seven matches to four, with one halved.

War broke out in Europe before the teams could get together for their next meeting in the series, scheduled at St. Paul, Minn., in 1940. No Walker cup matches have been held since.

St. John Favors Big 9 Tieup with Rose Bowl

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, Oct. 10—Ohio State university's athletic director, L. W. St. John, said during a visit here yesterday that he has always been in favor of having champions of the Western Conference and Pacific Coast conferences meet annually in the post-season Rose Bowl grid classic. St. John added that he believed "all Big Nine coaches and athletic directors share my opinion," but "it is a matter for the faculty to decide."

Ohio Northern Sets Homecoming Oct. 19

Special to The Star

ADA, O., Oct. 10—Homecoming marking the seventy-fifth anniversary of Ohio Northern university, will be celebrated Saturday, Oct. 19.

Delay in completing the local athletic field will require playing the Homecoming game with Otterbein at Robinson Field, Kenton at 2 p. m.

A pep meeting at Lehr auditorium Friday night; alumni registration, Alumni Council, and alumni chapel with an address by President Robert O. McClure, have been scheduled for Saturday forenoon.

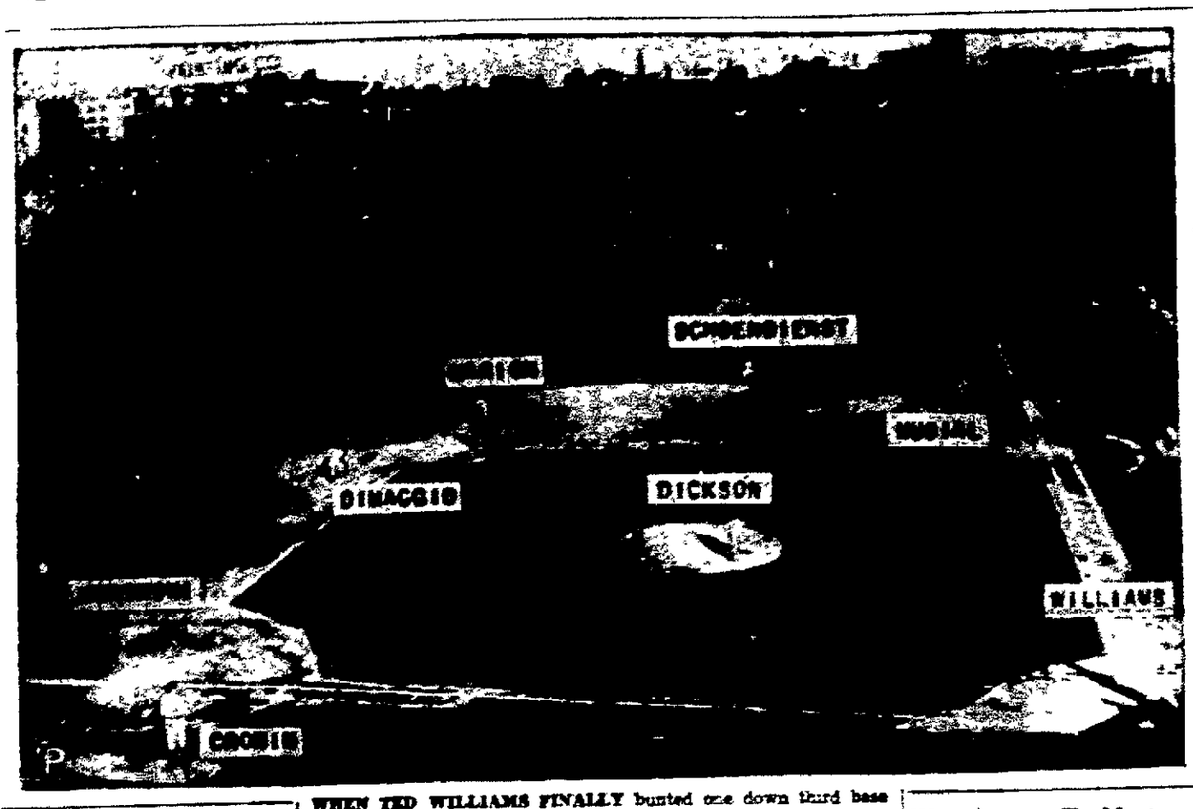
In the afternoon an autocade will transport students and alumni to Kenton where the ONU band and students will parade. The Homecoming Queen will be crowned at the game.

The festivities will close with a Homecoming dance at Brown building in Ada.

RACE RECORD SET

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10—Beulah Park had a new track record today for six furlongs 1:10 3/5 posted by South Dakota yesterday. South Dakota, owned by Al Smitha of Lexington Ky., carried 120 pounds and clipped three-fifths of a second from the old mark.



WHEN TED WILLIAMS FINALLY bunted one down third base in the third inning of the first series game in Boston the Cardinals were in the "Williams shift" and Ted beat out the hit for a single. In the fifth the Cards changed the shift a bit, Kurowski playing his regular position at third and Marion in back of second. The second Williams shift is pictured. Dom DiMaggio is on second base and Manager Joe Cronin of the Sox in the coacher's box. Williams struck out on this play.

BROWNS LEAD LOOP IN ALL STATISTICS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—The Cleveland Browns, only unbeaten, untied team in the All-America football conference, lead that professional circuit in virtually every offensive and defensive department, official statistics disclosed today.

In running up five straight victories, the Browns have averaged 290 yards per game by both rushing and passing. The Los Angeles Dons are second with an average of 287.2 yards in four games.

Cleveland's ground attack has covered an average of 4.36 yards on each of 186 plays. Second in that department is Buffalo with a 3.71 yard average on 216 plays.

San Francisco is setting the pace in forward passing with 44 completions in 76 attempts for an average of .579. Los Angeles is second with 50 completions out of 93 attempts for .538 and Chicago third with 58 of 114 for .509.

On the defensive side, the Browns, who have scored 142 points to 20 for their opposition, have held their foes to an average of 142.2 yards per game and 1.94 yards per rush.

They are tops in both these defensive departments as well as in defense against passing, having held opponents to 44 completions in 116 attempts for a percentage of .379.

Ohio Golfer in Top Spot at Montgomery

By The Associated Press

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 10—A seven-under-par 65 over the stylish Beauvoir Country club course put Herman Keiser in the spotlight today at the start of the Montgomery $10,000 Open Golf tournament.

The Akron, O., pro who copped the master's championship at Augusta, Ga., earlier this year and who is the fifth leading money winner of the PGA circuit, turned in his brilliant performance during a warm-up yesterday.

It topped anything else displayed in the practice rounds by the field of 71 of the nation's top-ranking golfers.

Grid Predicter Climbs Out On His Familiar Forecasting Limb

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 — This week's gridiron guesses for major Midwestern schools:

Army 27, Michigan 14 — The Wolverines, gunning for Army ever since the Cadets beat them 28-7 last year, are expected to spring a "surprise set" of plays which they have been especially sharpening up just for this game and have kept hidden from scouts.

Michigan Coach Fritz Crisler says Doc Blanchard's return will increase Army's efficiency 20 per cent.

Illinois 21, Indiana 13 — Although the Hoosiers looked impressive in bouncing back from two defeats to trounce Minnesota 21-0, the odds are against them in this 47-year-old rivalry. Illinois rates a nod on the work of its able quarterback Perry Moss, who did an outstanding job in Illinois' 43-7 verdict over Purdue last week. Moss has completed nine out of 21 aerials for a gain of 101 yards.

Northwestern 19, Minnesota 7 —Off last Saturday's performances, this one figures the Wildcats by two touchdowns, although they will miss their big veteran guard, Ray Justak, who has quit football to devote full time to his law studies. In brushing off Wisconsin 28-0 last week, Northwestern amassed a total of 335 yards with Vic Schwall, the Big Nine's leading scorer, averaging 7.5 yards in 13 carries. In addition to power on the ground, Lynn Waldorff's surprising squad also boasts potency through the air.

Ohio State 27, Wisconsin 6—Perhaps the Bangers can bounce back after absorbing that licking from Northwestern, but Ohio State seems to have found its stride walloping Southern California 21-0. Until proved otherwise, the Buckeyes still rate high as Big Nine title contenders, although they have yet to develop a passing attack.

Notre Dame 34, Purdue 7—Cecil Isbell, Purdue coach, notes: "Despite our personnel problems the boys are showing steady improvement, and one of these days we may spring a surprise." This doesn't figure to be one of those days, not with the injury bugaboo claiming so many key Purdue players. In smashing Illinois 26-6 and Pitt 33-0, the Irish totaled 849 yards on the ground and through the air.

Iowa 19, Nebraska 0 — The Hawkeyes, who won acclaim for holding Michigan to a 14-7 win Saturday, will probably take this opportunity to test new plays and put the competitive edge on their reserves. After being blasted 33-6 by Minnesota, Nebraska will be inspired by a 31-0 Big Six triumph over Kansas State last week.

Mississippi State 14, Michigan State 6 — The injury-plagued Spartans got their first big test against Boston College last week and failed, 34-20.

Marquette 21, Idaho 6—Idaho may be lucky enough to score for the first time this season, but that's probably all. The Vandals were crushed 32-0 by Washington State and 45-0 by Stanford in their first two games.

Wapakoneta To Meet Kenton Eleven Friday

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 10—The traveling trophy of the Western Buckeye league is at stake here Friday evening when Wapakoneta who holds the trophy plays Kenton.

Wapak won the trophy from Kenton in basketball last winter and have held it since. Wapakoneta is tied with Bluffton for first place in the league while Kenton holds down second position.

Injury-Ridden Irish Face Tilt With Marysville at Stadium

Injury-crippled St. Mary plays its second contest in the Ohio State league tomorrow night at Harding stadium. The kick-off is scheduled for 8:15.

John Baddell the regular fullback has an injured knee and will not be able to see action. Ed Murphy will replace him in the backfield. Others on the casualty list are Quarterback Anderson and Tackle Jim Wagner. Marvin the regular right guard also may be able to start because of an infected toe.

John Granger will probably get the nod at guard if Marvin is out and Ed Burke will be the man under center. Wagner has not been able to play much in the last games.

Contenders for Title

This is a league contest and the two teams along with Mt. Gilead appear to be top contenders for the title. The Marysville record includes wins over Upper Sandusky and Richwood and losses to Worthington and Bellefontaine. The St. Mary total of two wins a tie and a loss is only a little better than that of their opponents.

Were it not for the fact that a lot depends upon the reserve players starting for the Irish are able to do under the stream of battering to help bear the brunt of the attack, the Irish would probably be installed as the favorites in this contest. As it now stands the element of uncertainty involved makes it seem that the Irish are on the short end of the odds.

Marysville has a team that averages 155 in the backfield and 160 on the line. This gives the Irish a slight advantage in so far as the meat situation is concerned. It is apparent though that the season and the league race Richwood last week dropped its first league game and fourth game of the year at Marysville by a 19 to 0 score.

Coach Robert Brose's team is bolstered by the return of Dick Campbell, halfback letterman of last season who has not seen action yet this year.

Injuries may keep the Irish from showing because of not being able to get the benefits of all the practices this week.

The Irish halfbacks Stuber and Schuler will again be relied on heavily if St. Mary is to retain its perfect record in the Mid-State league.

Friday night will be Dad's Night at the stadium and the players fathers will be the guests of honor. During the half each one will be introduced to the spectators. Marysville will bring its band for the occasion.

Mt. Gilead Gridders To Play Richwood

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD—The Mt. Gilead high school Indians will be after their third win in a row and second mid-state league victory when they meet the Richwood eleven at the Mt. Gilead field on Friday night at 8 p. m.

The Indians scored an impressive 32 to 19 victory over Richwood last week to remain in the S. Mary and Marysville for the lead in the league race. Richwood last week dropped its first league game and fourth game of the year at Marysville by a 19 to 0 score.

Coach Robert Brose's team is bolstered by the return of Dick Campbell, halfback letterman of last season who has not seen action yet this year.

York's Home Run Once Again Puts Red Sox in Driver's Seat

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 10—Once again a booming home run off the bat of Rudy York has boosted the American League's Boston Red Sox into the driver's seat in the 1946 World Series.

Holding a 2-1 game edge over the St. Louis Cardinals going into today's fourth fray on York's clout and Dave Ferriss' 4-0 shutout pitching, Manager Joe Cronin is able to come back with Tex Hughson, his No. 1 man.

GEORGE MUNGER
May Get Nod

Eddie Dyer has to sift through his Red Bird staff and finally gamble with an untried ex-GI, "Red" Munger, who joined the club Aug. 21 and after winning two and lost two.

Ordinarily Howie Pollet would have been the choice but his aching left side has forced the Card Skipper to give him at least one more day of rest.

Has Shown Stuff

In Hughson, Cronin has a man who has already proved what he can do against the Card hitters although he was trailing 2-1 when he was lifted for a pinch hitter opening day in St. Louis.

Back at Fenway Park, the Red Sox yesterday look like an entirely different club than the bewildered and jittery team that split two games in Sportsman's Park.

Johnny Pesky, back in his element and also back against right hand pitching, broke his 0 for 9 string with two sharp singles and Bobby Doerr looked more like the game's No. 1 second baseman as he tied a series record with eight assists and chipped in with a double and single in the eight-hit attack on Murry Dickson and reliefer Ted Wilks.

One of the most interesting developments of the third game was the change in Dyer's tactics against Williams who has been stymied by the "Dyer shift" at St. Louiy.

Pass Williams

Ted, a little bit aggravated by reports that he couldn't hit to left, probably was up there to lay one down in the first inning but the Cards never gave him a chance. They didn't shift because Dyer ordered him passed intentionally. He and Pesky who had preceded with a single became the two runs scoring in front of York's wallop.

Williams crossed up the shift in the third when he pushed a bunt toward third into short left, confounding the infield which had moved around to leave third base unguarded.

The next time he came up there was a man on second with two out and the Birds pulled a half-way shift, leaving Whitey Kurowski at third but moving shortstop Marty Marion directly back of second. Second Baseman Red Schoedienst continued to play at a normal first base and Stan Musial guarded the foul line. It was a standoff, for Dickson struckout the Boston beanpole to the disgust of the assembled multitude of 34,500 Sox fans.

Liner to Right

Leading off in the eighth, Williams again faced the same half-way defense of the "single wing" as Dyer called it. He proceeded to shoot for the right field seats and sent a screaming liner into Enos Slaughter's hand.

St. Louis had at least one man on base in every inning except the second and fourth but the only one who reached third was Musial on his ninth-inning triple.

Ohio Race Owner Sues To Recover $11,750

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10—A suit by Morris Wexler, Ohio race horse owner, was on file in federal court here today, asking that Laurel Park race track officials be directed to pay him the $11,750 winning purse of last year's Maryland Handicap.

The suit contended that Wexler's horse, British Buddy, had won the event but that the prize went to the horse which finished second after the state racing commission charged that British Buddy had been stimulated.

Since then, the suit continued, the commission's anti-stimulation rule had been invalidated by the highest Maryland court, but Laurel operators refused to pay Wexler the purse despite a request to do so.

Upper Sandusky Junior Gridders Meet Edison

Edison junior high school plays host to Upper Sandusky junior high in a game this afternoon at 4:15. This is the first contest a local junior high has played this year with an out-of-town team.

The Edison team has not been able to gain a victory in their previous games with Vernon and Central, being two yards short of a tie with Vernon at the end of the game Monday. Fullback Browning one of the best ground-gainers in the junior high is the player that coach Kenny Somerlot will be banking on to spark his blue and golds to a win over the visitors.

Upper has played several practice games this year but this will be the first official engagement for that club.

OWU PREPS FOR BIG GRID GAME OF YEAR

Bishops Practice for Home Tilt Saturday with B-W.

DELAWARE, O., Oct. 8—The big game of the year is coming up Saturday for Ohio Wesleyan's "Battling Bishops," and Coach George E. Gauthier says his gridders "are in the right frame of mind to play a tough team like Baldwin-Wallace." And that's exactly what Saturday's schedule brings—a game with the undefeated Yellow Jackets who hold the scalps of both John Carroll and Akron.

"That Wayne game is a closed chapter," Gauthier commented Tuesday, and practice Monday indicated just as much. The Bishops know they're in for a battle Saturday and practices between now and game time will be the hardest of the year to date, in an effort to ready the team for the tilt. "We came out of the defeat in good mental and physical condition. Our quarterbacks took a terrific pounding but they will be ready to go," Gauthier said.

The only injury that seems to provide the jinx of the year is Jim Wade's troublesome side. He was hit again at Wayne, this time in the shoulder so will be taking it easy for a few days. Gauthier is planning no wholesale changes in line-up as a result of the loss. "We'll probably start about the same eleven Saturday," he said.

Wayne University's 13-0 victory over the Bishops last Saturday knocked them from the undefeated class.

Iowa State Gridders Eat Horse But Other Schools Fare Better

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—Iowa State gridders are going to be served horsemeat, but most other college football squads generally haven't reached that stage—yet.

Tex Oliver, coach at the University of Oregon, gave a typical reaction to the news that the first shipment of horsemeat—a 180-pound hind quarter—had arrived in Ames, Ia. for the Iowa State training table.

"We believe in red meat even of its horse or goat meat," Oliver declared. "But we haven't had to eat that yet."

The meat shortage has reduced the Indiana gridders of the Western conference to eating chicken, but early replies to an Associated Press survey indicated that while meat is increasingly difficult to obtain, so far most schools have been able to get it.

Some—like Ohio State and Nebraska — have their own supply and expect no trouble. At OSU, the Ohio State agriculture school furnishes meat from its own cattle. There are fewer choice cuts, but a steady flow of meat. Nebraska Coach Bernie Masterson and Athletic Director A. J. Lecandowski said the university had purchased beef at the Nebraska State fair and it should last the Cornhuskers a long time.

Sharp contrasts were reported at Yale and Arizona. A Yale spokesman said meat is "way below regular requirements and the squad is getting meat just occasionally." At Arizona the footballers eat at the general cafeteria where meat is served "practically daily. No horsemeat, either."

Clemson, South Carolina, Furman and The Citadel, all in the Southern Conference, each were reported to have "plenty" of meat while Georgia Tech gridders, although eating regular fare at school cafeteria, have had no difficulty getting proper food.

LSU TACKLE NAMED LINEMAN OF WEEK

Scribes List Top Grunt-and-Groaners of Front Wall.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—To Walter "Piggy" Barnes, 230-pound tackle at Louisiana State, goes the honor of being football's "lineman of the week."

Barnes was selected as last week's outstanding lineman in the first of The Associated Press' weekly polls of 1946 to divert the spotlight to the boys up front who often are forgotten in the natural tendency to laud the ball carriers.

Bryant Meeks, South Carolina center; Warren Amling, Ohio State guard; Hubert Bechtol, Texas end, and Odell Stautsenberger, Texas A. and M. guard, also were praised by sports writers participating in the poll for their play last week.

Harding Jay Vees Trounce Delaware Willis 21 to 0

Harding's junior varsity team yesterday afternoon downed the Delaware Willis reserves 21 to 0 at the Harding stadium. This was the first victory for the Vice Presidents in three starts this season.

The Jay Vee's scored in every quarter but the last. Raul Cline went off left tackle for 30 yards to give the Vice Presidents their first score and Phillians made the point on a quick opening play. Left half Calvin Roest scored Harding's second touchdown when he took a lateral from Phillians and scooted 65 yards to pay dirt. Phillians passed to end Roger Andrews for the fourteenth point. Cline again produced for the Junior Prexies going to the end zone from the Willis 10. Isaly bucked for the final point.

Cline and Roest did a good job of skirting the ends for the Jay Vee's and Chapman and Isaly showed real form in bucking for yardage. Brodnax turned in the best ball carrying performance for the visitors and fullback Hensley proved himself a threat in backing up the line.

BUCKS PLAN SHORT WORKOUT SESSION

Marion's Chuck Fazio May See Action Saturday.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 10—A short workout was planned for Ohio State's football squad today, and they were to entrain for Wisconsin shortly before midnight.

Another brief drill will be held at Janesville, Wis., tomorrow, then on Saturday at Madison the Bucks will open their Western conference schedule against Coach Harry Stuhldreher's Badgers.

No injuries have cropped up this week, although players put in a hard practice session yesterday by blocking before trying their defense against a scrub team using Badger plays.

There was a possibility that Chuck Fazio, big Marion, O., sophomore, might see some action Saturday at left tackle where he understudies Capt. Warren Amling. Fazio was kept out of the first two Buck games with an injury.

If Ohio State kicks off, there was a chance Mike Cannavino, the 170-pound Clevelander whose defensive play sparkled against Southern California last weekend, might start at quarterback in place of Dick Palmer.

Ohio Druggist Will Recreate Role As Tight Wire Walker

By The Associated Press

JAMESTOWN, O., Oct. 10 — Henry Hornberger, the druggist will become Novelty Zebratos, daring performer on the tight wire, again here Oct. 31.

The 57-year-old grandfather, who was a big name with the old Hagenbeck circus three decades ago, announced today he would come out of retirement to present his act as a feature of the annual Halloween and Mardi Gras celebration.

The civic fete is sponsored by the Lions club and Henry is one of its most active members.

"It won't take much practice," he said as he dug his tights out of a trunk and completed plans to erect a platform in the business section of this Greene county city.

Novelty Zebratos retired from show business 22 years ago at Springfield. As Henry Hornberger, his real name, he came to Jamestown nine years ago and in 1939, at the age of 50, passed the state examination to become a registered pharmacist.

U. S. Diplomacy In Atomic Matters Baffles Others

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The United States delegation to the atomic control commission seems to be in the position of the man who tried to give away a solid gold brick—nobody's going to fall for that gag.

The spectacle of a nation laying its minimum instead of maximum demands on the conference table at the outset seeking both to clarify the issues and avoid haggling, apparently has the negotiators stumped.

Diplomats don't ordinarily do business that way. They can't believe that there isn't a bargaining point somewhere, and have spent many weary weeks looking for it. To them, it seems, it would have been more "regular" for the United States to have fixed a high, even impossible, price on her atomic secrets, and then begun bargaining.

Plan in Minimum State

When Bernard Baruch presented the United States control plan to the atomic commission it already had the water squeezed out. Formulated in the light of more information about atomic bombs than is available to any other country, it constituted the greatest concession the administration felt it could make with regard for the nation's safety. Indeed, many people familiar with the possibilities of atomic development fear that safety may have been infringed upon.

But the search for bargaining points has not been diminished by Mr. Baruch's insistence that the proposition before the world is a rock-bottom one.

The Russians could hardly have expected that their counter-proposal for an "honor system," would be accepted in the light that history throws on national interpretations of honor.

Mexican Question Dismissed

The recent Mexican "question" as to whether dangerous atomic processes could be placed under central international supervision, with only "denatured" fuels going to individual nations for peaceful purposes, must also be considered merely an effort to see if there is a field for bargaining. The commission's scientific report a few days before on how production of atomic power works contained the answer to that. In working with fissionable material there is never any point at which it can be said that "this is where we split. On this hand is material which can be made into a bomb, on the other is material which cannot." A fixed corollary of working with fissionable material for peaceful purposes is the by-production of plutonium. With denatured material it apparently is very difficult to produce enough explosive for bombs—but that is a matter of time and development of processes, not of impossibility.

If the United States demand for rigid inspection and other safeguards prevents other nations from accepting the plan it will be unfortunate. The U. S. position is that since we accept them, since they will operate first and far more heavily against us than others, since we are volunteering to give up a long head start on an important military weapon rather than enter into a race for its development, and since we are offering to share an economic weapon of incalculable value, the failure of others to "buy in" would hardly constitute proof of "U. S. intransigence."

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Are Returning Veterans "Different"?

During the war you heard a lot about how hard it was going to be for returning veterans to get adjusted to civilian life . . . how they'd be "different."

Well, plenty of them have returned to our town, and a finer, steadier bunch you couldn't ask for. Most of them are back at the same jobs . . . going with the same nice home-town girls (getting married, some of them, and setting up families) . . . renewing the same old friendships.

Even their amusements are the same. Nothing more exciting than fishing Seward's creek or pitching horseshoes . . . enjoying an outdoor barbecue with friendly wholesome beer and pleasant talk.

If they've changed at all it's in the direction of maturity and tolerance . . . tolerance for everything except dictators, and those who would destroy our democratic principles of live and let live. And from where I sit, that's another reason to be proud of them.

criminatory action against their allies."

"It is this policy which gives rise to a good deal of suspicion as to the designs of the Soviet union in this part of the world," Bevin said.

The senator was the first speaker in a day, which, according to the Big Four timetable, must end with final adoption of the Romanian pact, the second of the five treaties to come before plenary sessions. The first, the Italian treaty, was approved and sent to the Big Four for final action early today, less than seven hours before the delegates returned to their seats this morning.

Vandenberg Answers Slavs

Answering the Slav argument, that the United States should think more about the St. Lawrence river than the Danube, Vandenberg declared that vessels of all nations are "welcome to use the St. Lawrence on terms of equality with those of the United States and Canada."

More than that, he told the 21-nation conference, which is striving to meet an Oct. 15 adjournment deadline, the United States is "riparian by proxy" so long as American forces are occupying sections of Germany and Austria to whose economic progress the Danube is "indispensable."

"We must act as the economic trustees for parts of Germany and Austria," Vandenberg said, adding: "Peace is substantially related to the avoidance of economic barriers."

The two articles, the senator said, "raise vital issues" on the ability of other nations to continue to trade through and with Romania.

He cited historical precedent for internationalizing the stream.

The senator declared that the Danubian conference envisaged by the treaty would be mostly riparian states, granting them "a maximum of home rule."

Assails Slav Demands

In support of a majority-backed clause requiring Romania to put her foreign trade on a basis of equality for at least 18 months, Vandenberg assailed Slav demands for preferential treatment for neighboring states.

Vandenberg was followed by Yugoslav Deputy Premier Edvard Kardelj, who attacked the majority report on the ground that the peace conference "is not competent to deal with the Danube question."

Kardelj claimed a greater Danubian role for Yugoslavia because "fifty per cent of its course is through Yugoslav territory."

Kardelj asserted the commission majority had been formed of nations "thousands of miles away," while the countries directly interested had voted against Article 34, the clause of question.

Serves Notice

Kardelj served notice that Yugoslavia could not accept internationalization except by the "free consent" of riparian nations and by them exclusively.

"We live in the twentieth century," Kardelj said. "We can read history books. There is no sense in pretending we don't understand the meaning of the present discussion . . . The fight for spheres of influence is not over yet."

"Why," he demanded, "should there be a monopoly of navigation on the Mediterranean and an internationalization of the Danube? Doesn't the conference think that power politics can endanger world peace?"

General Hellodor Pika of Czechoslovakia reminded delegates that Romania in joining the Allied cause in August, 1944, had made "great sacrifices" for victory, and asked the conference to place a "lighter burden" on the nation's "new democratic regime."

Clevelander Killed in Airplane Crash

By The Associated Press

GRAFTON, O., Oct. 10 — A rented airplane carrying two 22-year-old Cleveland ex-servicemen crashed in a pasture near here yesterday, killing one of the men and injuring the other seriously.

Howard A. Liebenguin, who received 14 battle stars during 32 months service with the Marines, was killed. George E. Teske, a former Air Force flight sergeant, is in Elyria Memorial hospital with a possible skull fracture and facial lacerations.

The two men were studying flying under the GI bill of rights at Cleveland airport, and Liebenguin, who had logged 80 hours of flying, was at the controls when the plane fell.

CIO

But the CIO and B.R.T., he said, "are intimately linked in ideals and structures and in policy."

He continued:

"In their greedy quest for profits, American monopoly employers are raising the cry of productivity and urging that the workers make a 'bigger pie' in order to get a larger share. The figures show x x x there has been a continuous shift to a larger share of profits.

"Unless through an adequate price control program and an adequate tax program some means is devised to prevent the siphoning off of huge pools of private capital in the form of profits, the condition will be created for a new depression."

Murray asserted there is "a deliberate campaign to degrade the wage standards of the American workers and the living standards of the American people."

Responsible economists, he said, anticipate that the decline in the worker's actual earnings since April 1945 will reach 25 per cent by November.

Rev. McAdow Is Speaker as Bible Class Meets

Rev. H. M. McAdow, pastor of Wesley Methodist church, addressed the Wednesday Noon Bible Class at the Y.M.C.A. on the subject, "God Knows His Way."

Rev. McAdow made the following comments on the present state of the world: society is in a state of unrest and flux; more people are hungry, homeless, and helpless than ever in history; leaders of both parties in the U. S. are playing petty politics; evil has made great inroads into our living; communism is a real threat to the world; man is selfish, mean and beastly.

Nevertheless, he said, we may have lost our way but God is the same yesterday, today and tomorrow. He recommended as a cole the hymn, "God Is Our Refuge and Strength."

E. O. Uncapher presided over the meeting. Mott Hornby, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I WAITED until Katharine was out of the door before I answered Sam. I did not know exactly what to tell him about Carolyn's accompanying her mother. He knew nothing of the rigorous search to which every stitch of Helena's clothing had been subjected after her attempt to keep him quiet with drugs secreted in her clothing.

But, because of that, I was sure that Helena, when she first realized she was to be searched, and cleverly transferred to Carolyn the little packet which Sam had given her. Or she might have given it to Carolyn earlier in order to make room for the ample supply of quieting drugs she had hidden on her person.

Exceedingly Nervous

"It will be easy to send Carolyn away," I said soothingly. "If you do not wish her to be here while you talk to her mother. But Helena has been exceedingly nervous, and Carolyn hasn't left her for a moment."

"The blessed child!" Carolyn's stepfather murmured, while I cynically reflected that "blessed" was not the adjective I would have applied to the young hellion I knew as Carolyn Brixton.

But when she appeared, with her arm around her mother's waist, she was as demure and sweet as the "Blessed Damozel" herself.

But Helena was bristling.

"I'm getting tired of this nonsense," she said. "Not seeing my own husband alone, indeed! But if it's a rule that can't be broken, I certainly wish to choose my own jailers.

"You're the nurse in this case, Katharine," she went on. "I want you to stay here while I talk to Sam. I certainly do not want Madge Graham to listen to what I have to say."

Distinct and Venomous

I pretended not to hear her, although it was a difficult feat, for her tones were as distinct as they were venomous.

And then Sam intervened. "Never mind that now," Baby," he said with decision. "I have something most important to tell you. Nobody need hear. Come over here. Leave Carolyn where she is."

The one redeeming trait about Helena Brixton is her devoton to her husband and to her children. As if she were a homing pigeon, she skimmed across the room and sank gracefully to her knees beside his bed, taking his hands in both hers after she had kissed him.

Low Murmur

Then for several minutes there was no sound in the room save the low murmur of Sam Brixton's voice, and two stormy interruptions of "No, No, Sam! I can't!" from Helena.

I knew that sh emust be objecting to giving up the packet to me, but his droning voice went on and on, until finally, with a choking sigh, she capitulated.

"All right," she said. "I'll do what you want, although I warn you, Sam, you're making a great mistake. She's a viper, that woman!"

I knew that she must be obdisturbing Sam because he could not defend me to her. Only Ronald knew of the service I had done his stepfather long ago. Helena and Carolyn were not only ignorant of my help, but of the terrible emergency which had elicited that aid.

"I'm sorry, Baby," he said meekly, "that you feel that way, but—she's Spencer's daughter, you know—I've got to give her this. Please hand it over to me."

Voice Had Risen

His voice had risen so that I could hear every word, and from beneath my eyelashes I saw Helena Brixton send a glance whose venom would have killed me if it could have been distilled and fed to me.

"I haven't it here," she said. "I'll have to go and get it. But, I beg of you Sam darling, think again of what you're doing. Don't give that to Madge Graham!"

He put a fluttering hand up to his mouth, and I saw the beads of moisture stand out on his forehead. That Katharine saw them too, I knew when she moved swiftly toward him with a withering side glance at Helena.

"I must ask you not to excite my patient any more," she said coldly, "Bring the thing he wishes and give it to him without any more words."
